THE United States now has the largest monument in the world, and when the Bartholdi Statue of Liberty Enlightening the Word is erected she will have the largest statue.

WE don't know anything about Cleveland's ability as a base ballist, but we would like to see him try to catch a ball dropped from the top of the Washington Monument.

VICE PRESIDENT HENDRICKS is troubled with sore eyes, and wants to be cured by saltwater and sea air. Henry M. Watterson's eyes were cured by looking at the President. Why does not the Vice President try the same remedy?

AFTER a lull in news from Suakim two bits of information come simultaneously. One says that Osman Digna has collected another large army; the other says that Lord Wolseley feels suddenly unwell. Can there be more than a coincidence in these happenings?

A GREAT many people of all parties would like very much to know what secret service Mr. Keiley ever did Mr. Bayard which makes that gentleman so persistent in paying him off. A man must have put himself irrevocably in the power of another man to cling to him as Mr. Bayard clings to Mr. Kelley. Will some one explain this remarkable relation?

THE chief trouble with the punishment of crime is no longer the distance the criminal can run. The telegraph traces him around the world, as it did the suspected murderer of Preller, Maxwell, who awaits a requisition at Aukland, New Zealand. But we have no invention to insure that courts, district attorneys and juries, will perform their duties, as may be seen in the acquittal of Short, the dynamiter.

CAPTAIN PAUL BOYTON'S practical illustration of the value of his life-saving apparatus for laying torpedoes will not be lost on either the Russian or the British navy. When one man can lay a torpedo, blow up a man-of-war and stand more than an even chance of escaping himself, the use of torpedo-boats, which involves the possible loss of several lives and may not succeed after all in destroying the enemy's vessel, seems bound to be given up.

A DISTINGUISHED United States Senator said a few days ago: "Cleveland is getting too much credit altogether. He is not paying the least attention to civil service reform ideas. He makes a pretence of retaining Postmasters who have unexpired terms, but there are only about 3,000 of them. He is turning the other officers out as fast as he can. He can't cut off all these heads at once. If they should work twelve hours a day, it would take them a year to do it. The most of Cleveland's appointments have been about as bad as they could be. I see nothing in his Administration to commend."

Southern Repudiation.

There are some evils beside that of Democracy which have become sectional traits of the South, and upon which they may be regarded as tolerably solid. The South was solid for human slavery, it was solid for rebellion, it has marched in almost solid phalanx for all phases of the Democratic party, and many times cities, and entire States of the South, have been solid in repudiating their obligations, affirming the doctrine that Legislative repudiation will pay honest debts.

If a Northern merchant, institution, company, city or State, should repudiate their accepted contracts and obligations, or refuse absolutely to pay legal debts, it would be accounted downright robbery; but a Southern man, community, or State, can do this same thing, and, too, under a big blow of trumpets about vested rights, honor and sovereignty.

Some time ago, the city of Memphis induced the Legislature of Tennessee to pass an act repealing the charter of their city, so there could be no corporate body found to be held responsible for the debt which the city had contracted. This was deemed an easy way to escape the fulfilling of a promise to pay, and was quite consistent with ordinary Southern methods.

And now the Bourbons of old Virginia—of that grand state, the "Mother of Presidents," holding also the F. F's of the Republic, where every native born gentleman is "high-toned" and full of "honor,"—have concocted a similar scheme to resolve that old state out of being by the action of a State Convention, and thus elude the payment of all bonds, or interest due, or the fulfillment of other obligations. Such is the grand Democratic idea of sovereignty, and state rights. But, in this instance we imagine the attempt to disband the state of Virginia will be a failure, yet the proposition is none the less real, and none the less a shameful expression of the sentiment of repudiation which has long been one of the fixed elements in southern politics and character.

The city of New Orleans and the state of Louisiana have for years been trying, and scheming, to escape the payment of their debts by repudiation. While visiting in New Orleans some years ago we met many prominent citizens who asserted that repudiation was the only way out of their difficulties, that they would certainly be compelled to repudiate payment of at least one half their obligations.

Notwithstanding the South has suffered by this method of settlement in the past, and is suffering from the same cause at the present time, yet the people do not seem to have profited much thereby. In their corporate city, or state capacities they are just as ready and eager to borrow money, to issue bonds or to assume any financial obligations, as ever before, not calculating their resources and facilties for payment, and when the obligations mature and payment is demanded they satisfy their southern conscience, honor and sense of right and justice by a legislative act of repudiation.

Carried no farther than in its financial sense this doctrine of repudiation is bad enough, but tracing the southern character to its deepest significance we find repudiation to be a controling instinct or passion. The rights of humanity were repudiated during all the long years they held human beings in bondage. The doctrines and morality of Christianity have been repudiated by their social conditions. Though claiming to be in the confedency of states making one Union they have repudiated the authority of the government by asserting the superior sovereignty of state rights. Though claiming to be democratic they have ever repudiated the fundamental principle of Jeffersonian democracy, equal rights, by distinction of caste and classes. Though sworn citizens and asserting allegiance to the government, they have repudiated loyalty and united in rebellion. Though assuming the highest sense of honor and the most delicate politeness, yet in the cultivated circles of the south ladies and gentleman will repudiate the customs, courtesies and demands which obtain in polite socicty if any northern visitors happen to expect a sentiment or opinion adverse to their narrow notions and prejudices.

And to-day the South--the solid South, compact, standing together almost as one man, under the leadership of Jeff Davis, would repudiate the results of the war, if they could.

Memorial Day.

Every year the commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, Dep't, of Penn'a, issues his address, in language which is intended to awaken again the feelings of patriotism slumbering in the breasts of those who have survived the horrors of war. It also has a similar effect on those who, while they have never experienced scenes of conflict, yet venerate the memory of the heroes who died for their country. This year the address is issued by one with whom almost all the readers of this paper are personally acquainted. We publish it entire and ask all to read it carefully:

HEADQ'RS DEPARTMENT OF PENNA., GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC, Philadelphia, May 6th, 1885.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 9.

Comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic: Another year in life's campaign brings us again to Memorial Day with its sad memories and tender associations, and as the Nation bends over the graves of its heroes and pays to noble dust the tribute of its love, let us remember that we are not only to cast our floral offerings on the graves of former comrades-in-arms, but standing in their presence to re-dedicate ourselves to the unfinished work they have left us to do.

We shall stand on this Memorial Day at the graves of comrades who marched with us one year ago. At these graves we are reminded that our ranks here are rapidly thinning, and with each vacant place come new and weightier responsibilities.

Their work is done, their mission ended. To us, their comrades, is given the duty of keeping fresh and green their memories, of perpetuating and transmitting intact to posterity the country perfected by their sacrifices and sufferings. Resting from their labors, the story of their lives jeweled by deeds of valor and patriotism, shall inspire in the hearts of all the people a love for country and flag, that shall keep the land forever united, beautiful and free.

Let memorial services be held in such places of worship at which Posts may be able to attend, and in the Sanctuary let us thank God, that it was our privilege to live in a time when hosts of brave men died for humanity's sake, and, when the greatest and grandest army in the history of the world proclaimed liberty throughout the land and to all the inhabitants thereof.

BY COMMAND OF AUSTIN CURTIN,
Department Commander.
THOS. J. STEWART,
Assistant Adjutant General.

IT is said that Mr. Matthew Arnold, when in this country, pronounced Mrs. McDonald wife of Senator John F. McDonald, one of the most beautiful women in the world. This made the ladies in Washington so jealous that it has seriously impaired the Senator's chances for advancement. Miss Cleveland, Mrs. Hendricks and other society ladies do not want Mrs. McDonald to rival and probably surpass them in eliciting the admiration and attention which they now command.

DOWN east heavy snow storms are still fashionable. Even our Pennsylvania atmosphere has had a frosty edge of late.

Reduction of the Surplus.

When the Republican party assumed the reins of government the treasury was empty. When placed in Democratic hands a few months ago it was full. When Republicans took charge of the finances the credit of our country was poor throughout the world; now it is superior to that of any nation under the sun.

The era of low credit and depleted treasury promises to be revived under the Democratic regime, with no corresponding benefit, so far as we can discover, to the people. Read what that strong Democratic paper, the Philadelphia Times, has to say on the subject:

A comparison of the government revenues for the first nine months of the present fiscal year with the corresponding period of the three preceding years shows a serious decline in receipts and explains why no bond calls have been made of late and why none are likely to be made for some time to come.

The receipts for the first nine months of the fiscal year 1881-2 from customs duties and internal revenue were $272,507,000 in round numbers; for the corresponding period in 1882-3, $274,279,000; 1883-4, $248,774,000, while for the present year they only reach $220,188,000. The loss is $28,500,000 as compared with the same period of last year and nearly twice that amount as compared with the first nine months of 1882-3. Secretary McCulloch's estimate of the total receipts for the present year placed the figures at $380,000,000, but if the present ratio is maintained they are likely to fall twenty-five millions below that amount. As his estimate allowed for a falling off of more than sixteen millions from the receipts of last year it will be seen that the total loss to the revenues for the year is likely to be in the neighborhood of forty millions. * * * * * *

The question of what to do with the surplus seems to have solved itself for the present, the surplus having taken itself out of the way. The new Congress will find that it will have occasion to pay greater attention to the matter of cutting down expenses than that of reducing revenue, unless there shall be a marked increase in receipts during the coming summer.

THE New Nork Sun which, since it undertook to hatch the Presidential egg of Benjamin F. Butler, has pursued a very erratic orbit, suddenly shines forth in defense of Mr. Keiley. With this sentiment of the Sun's everyone will agree: "As for those who assail him because the lady he loved and married is a Jewess, we hope nothing from them. They are unworthy the notice of any man with a genuine human heart in his bosom." The truth is that no one has assailed Mr. Keiley because he married a Hebrew lady—that is not the public's affair—but because he is an unfit person to represent the United States abroad. Moreover, since the Austrian Emperor is so fanatical and semi-barbarious as to refuse to receive Jews at his court, Mr. Bayard by sending Mr. Keiley to Vienna unnecessarily exposed Mr. Keiley to insult, and at the same time exposed the United States to a snubbing. As there was absolutely no reason for this, upon Mr. Bayard must fall the blame of being a blundering, obstinate, tactless Secretary of State. He first insulted this country by choosing a mediæval and unregenerated pro-slavery fossil; he next insulted Italy by proposing to ship the fossil to Rome; he finally insulted the wretched fossil himself by sending him to the very court where he will be treated with rudeness. Mr. Bayard must begin to perceive that it is easier to manage the State of Delaware than it is to direct the relations of the United States with our foreign neighbors.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

PRINCESS BEATRICE wants the English people to give her the modest dowry of $30,000 per year. She is the prettiest of the Queen's daughters and should have it, dear girl.

ALL of our readers doubtless remember reading of Capt. Phelan who was assaulted and almost killed by a man named Dick Short in New York City sometime ago and the excitement the event caused. Both of these men were supposed to be dynamiters and Phelan was accused of being too free with his tongue in telling important secrets. This was supposed to have been the reason for the attempt of his fellow-dynamiters to get him out of the way. The case against Short of assault with intent to kill seemed to be very plain and we see no reason why he should not have been convicted. But the accused man was not the only thing that seemed to be Short; even and exact justice was also short; indeed, it was entirely wanting in this case, and the jury returned a verdict of "Not guilty." Now the question is pertinent: "Has New York City got out of the hands of the Tweed ring only to fall under the control of dynamiters?" If so, her last state is worse than the first.

CAPTAIN BOYTON, the expert swimmer, had a good opportunity to blow the British war ship Garnet out of water a few nights ago as she was lying peacefully in New York harbor – that is, if he had been so disposed. He swam under the vessel and successfully attached one of the largest torpedoes to it. He was not perceived by the men on the ship until he had proceeded quite a distance from it. The torpedo which the Captain used was harmless and he did it only to test what he believed was practicable, but had never before been accomplished. This demonstrates how dangerous even one man may be in this age of dynamite to a large ship and her crew which in former days required at least an adversary of her own size and abilities.

GEN. MIDDLETON appears by the latest dispatches from the scene of his operations to have made thus far, a complete fizzle. "The men behaved handsomely," he reported of the battle fought on Saturday, but it is now said they fell back. Handsome behaviour is a great desideratum in a fight, but it is generally thought that handsome behaviour consists in holding ground or pressing the enemy back. Handsome behaviour that only eventuates in concentrating to the rear, is not likely to end the war, but more likely to extend the nunabers of those engaged in it. The papers in Canada are showing anxiety lest Middleton's force will be overwhelmed before succor can reach them.

GERMANY has a population of about forty-five million inhabitants and its universities have twenty thousand students. England with a population of twenty-six millions furnishes only 5,500 students to the universities of Oxford and Cambridge. Several reasons may be brought forward to account for this discrepancy, the chief reason being that in Germany, more than in any other country in the world, a university education is the stepping stone to civil and military promotion. In England the course of preparation for special examinations for admission to the India service is pursued by many students who, in Germany, would attend a university.

THE Illinois Legislature is now Republican on joint ballot by a majority of one, owing to the unexpected gain of a Senator in a special election to fill a vacancy caused by death. Those who are disposed to regard this as the work of a special Providence should now piously go to work and elect a United States Senator. General Logan's chances are greatly improved and his friends are jubilant, while the Morrison men are correspondingly depressed.

As long as they confine their actions to their own people we shall not interfere.

DAY DREAMS.

BY W. S. WILSON.

There are solitudes voiceless and vast,
Without either sunbeam or star.
Only crossed by the hight cleaving wings,
Of angels that come from afar;
Each leaving a pathway of light
Across the abysses of gloom,
Like the gleam of the pinions of Faith,
As it sweeps o'er the gates of the tomb.

There are solitudes lonely and dark,
Though lighted by sunbeam and star,
That are vocal with voices of song
More awful than silence by far;
Weird wastes where the angels of God,
Traversing the channel of years,
Are hid from the vision of men—
From eyes that are blinded by tears.

When the spirit that spurns in its pride
The bestial, the sordid and base,
That abhorbs all that's false in itself,
And hates all that's false in the race,
Shakes the dust of the earth from its wings,
And passes the stars in its flight
From the life-woven shadows beneath,
To fanes of eternal light.

There is longing no words can express
To pierce the deep secrets of years,
That are hidden in ages to come,
Concealed from the wisest of seers;
For the threads that are woven by life,
In the web of the sorrowful now,
Are fast to the shuttles of fate,
No mortal can ever tell how.

But amid the fierce conflict of life,
Where millions are struggling for gain,
Where passion rules reason and truth,
Where pleasure is clouded with pain;
And beyond the dim circle that bounds
The short-sighted vision of earth,
Hope is pointing the wise to a fane
She built for the race at its birth.

There's a faith that is born in the soul,
Saved only from absolute loss
By the half-revealed truths that we see
Far shining from Calvary's Cross;
'Tis the guide to the Kingdom of Hope,
Thro' gates but ajar for the strong,
From the life-woven shadows beneath
To regions of triumph and song.

A WAIF.

Her dress is ragged and torn and old,
Her feet are bare and the day is cold;
Some shaving curls on her shoulders fall,
And a train is made of a worn-out shawl.

Some flowers that once were a beauty's pride
And now are withered and thrown aside,
She holds as close as her fingers can,
While a crumpled hand-bill serves for a fan.

You would never have guessed, as you saw her there,
With those withered flowers and feet all bare,
That the gloomy street was a brilliant hall,
And she dancing there, the belle of the ball.

Our Story Teller.

Little Madeleine.

A STORY ADAPTED FROM THE GERMAN.

The day was just breaking when the post-coach from Strasburg drove into Paris, and the passengers, yawning and stretching, expressed their joy in different ways.

"Well," said one man, "Paris at last!"

"Is this Paris?" asked a sweet little voice from one corner. Every one turned to look, and there sat a pretty little creature, six years old, with a bright, fresh face, soft blue eyes, and golden curls clustering about her head.

"What a dear little creature!"

"What a pretty child!"

"What a little angel!"

Such were their delighted exclamations.

"Are you all alone, little child?" asked one.

"Yes, all alone," replied the child with a bright smile. "In Strasburg mamma took me to the stage-house, and the conductor promised to take me safely to Paris. And he has kept his word, for here I am. Mamma said God would take care of me, for I am His child, you see; she gave me to Him as soon as ever I was born."

In a few moments every one was busy with his own affair and forgot the child. The conductor placed her on one side and told her to wait patiently until he got through, and then he would take her to her uncle.

She obeyed, and waited until the last passenger had gone. Then the man came toward her and said:

"Now, little one, let's have the letter. I have just had orders to go on with another coach to Lyons; so I cannot go with you to your uncle; but I will give you to a kind, trustworthy man. So, the letter; quick, the letter!"

"O yes; here it is;" and she put her hand into her pocket; then drew it out and looked confounded. "It's gone! I put it here last night, and it's gone! It must have fallen on the floor of the coach."

"You don't mean that!" said the man; "and the coach is half way back to Strasburg by this time. But tell me your uncle's name; I have but five minutes; indeed, there comes my coach now. Quick—your uncle's name!"

"I don't know it," said the child, "it was on the letter, but that's lost!"

All this time the coach was approaching. It distressed the man to leave a child like that alone in Paris; but he said his situation depended upon his going; he dared not even detain the vehicle two minutes.

"God help you, poor little one!" he murmured, sprang into the coach and rattled off. The child implored him wildly not to leave her alone, but he dared not stay.

Sitting down again upon the bench, she cried at first bitterly; but suddenly a new thought entered her mind.

"I will go back to mamma," said she, and getting up she went up to a person whom, by his uniform, she knew to be the superintendent of the line.

"If you please, sir," said she, "I want to go to Strasburg; will you ask some of the conductors to take me?"

"You to Strasburg? What for, you little monkey?" was the reply.

"I want to go back to mamma, sir, if you please. Do let one of them take me."

"Very well; but I suppose you have money?"

"O yes, two francs;" and the child looked quite delighted. "I sha'n't want to eat and drink more than that will buy."

"You little fool, I mean to pay your passage. Are two france all you've got?"

"Not a bit more, sir; but do let them take me. I won't take up a bit of room. I'll squeeze way in the corner, or I'll creep under the seat; only take me back to mamma!"

With a harsh voice and brutal words the man drove the trembling child from the place and bade her "go off."

"I don't know where to go," said she; "I don't know any one in Paris, and mamma's in Strasburg." And she sat down again and sobbed aloud.

"None of your howling there, I tell you! Go 'long and beg, if you can't do anything else." And again he drove her off. The poor child walked away. She neither knew nor cared where; she was only thinking how to get back to Strasburg. At last, overcome with hunger and fatigue, she sat down on a stone and began to cry bitterly. The streets were full of people, and all who passed looked around at her, but no one spoke to her until there came by a boy about twelve years old, leading a donkey to which was fastened a wagon loaded with coal.

"Coals! coals! very cheap!" cried the little merchant; then seeing the weeping child, he stopped and demanded what was the matter.

In a few simple words she told her story. "So you see," said she, "since I can't find my uncle I must go back to Strasburg."

"Tell me your uncle's name, dear. I'll find him for you,"

"O if I only knew it myself! It was on the letter, but that's lost. I wish God would take care of me, as mamma said He would, for I'm His little child!" And she sobbed afresh.

"Don't cry, dear little girl. Tell me what your name is."

"My name is Madeleine," said the child, "and mamma lives in Strasburg. O, I wish I had stayed with her and not come to Paris."

"Madeleine is a very pretty name," said the boy. "Mine's Pierre, and my mamma is called Madame Thierry. But come home with me. My mamma is very, very good, and will take care of you, and we'll send back to Strasburg for another letter."

Delighted at this idea, little Madeleine dried her tears and gladly allowed Pierre to lift her up on the top of the load of coal, over which he first spread his coat, and chatting merrily, they soon reached the humble cottage of Madame Thierry.

The kind woman gladly undertook the care of the little stranger, and the next day Pierre went to the stage-office to meet the Strasburg coach and ask about the letter. The driver did not know the child's mother; the conductor did, but had not yet returned from Lyons, so they must wait.

Meantime, one day there came a terrible storm. Even Pierre could not go abroad. It was fearful. To while away the time, the children got around Madame Thierry and begged from her a story of old times, as they called it.

"Well," said she, "I will tell you one that troubles me yet. Now listen:

"You have heard of the dreadful times called 'The Revolution.' Some unkind and thoughtless action of the King and his nobles to the people made them very angry, and some wicked men took advantage of it. They told them that kings had no more right to be rich than they had, and persuaded them that it would be a most excellent thing to kill all who were rich and share their money among those who were not rich. By this kind of talk they worked upon them to such an extent that the people acted as if they were crazy, and imprisoned and killed every rich man they could find,—the good as well as the bad. Now, at this time I was living as nursery-maid with a fine old nobleman, the Count St. Foie. His family was a wife and one little daughter—both as sweet and lovely as they could be. They were always doing good, and a poor man, whom they had greatly helped, gave them notice of the outbreak in time to enable them to send away to a safe place a great deal of their money.

The Count and Countess, however, were both afterward taken and killed, and their last words to me were 'Jenny, save Marion.'

"Marion was their little daughter, then twelve years old. Her governness, at the first alarm, had thrown into a valise some of the child's clothes and all the money and jewels she could find. With these I succeeded in getting away with her to the poor man's hut—the one who had given notice to the Count—and there we disguised ourselves before going farther. Then we made our way to the river, where Thomas, to whom I was soon married, was waiting with a boat. I got her to Lyons and put her in the care of a former housekeeper of the Count's, and whom I knew to be devoted to him. There I left her and went back to see if I could save anything more.

"Dreadful, dreadful sights did I see there! But at last things became quiet, and matters had been going on smoothly for some years, when one day I had a call from a visitor. An elegant-looking officer came to see me (I was nursing Pierre then) and said he was the Count Narbonne, the young brother of Marion's mother, and when the revolution broke out had been in Spain. Here he had been so fortunate as to do the King many services, and he in return had not only richly rewarded him but obliged the French Government to give him back the property the revolutionists had taken from the family. He was only just come home, and wished to find his sister's child.

"I told him where I had left her, and he went to see about her; but all he could learn was that she had married a young officer, the orphan son of one of the Count's old friends. He stood high in the German army, but was not rich, and had taken her to Germany, where his regiment was. Since that, the old woman said, she had heard that the young officer had been killed, and that Marion and her little daughter were living in Strasburg.

"The Count went there, but could not find her. Then he came here and left word where I should send to him if I heard more of her. But I have never heard a word," said the worthy woman with tears in her eyes. "Dear Miss Marion! how I would love to see her and her little one! Her uncle comes every now and then to ask, and has all her property safe for her; but—"

Here she was interrupted by a faint knock at the door. She arose in haste to open it, and a young but miserable woman, drenched with the storm and exhausted by hunger and fatigue, fell fainting across the step. Gently lifting and taking her toward the fire, she opened her eyes and spoke, and the next moment, with a shriek of joy, little Madeleine was hanging around her neck. It was her mother!

The sight and voice of the child revived her even more than the warmth and shelter. When she had eaten and been strengthened by a glass of tea, she told the story of her fears and sufferings. She had gone to the coach office to inquire if her child had reached Paris safely, and while there the letter had been found in the coach. A passenger by another coach told, in her hearing, of the brutal conduct of the superintendent to a beautiful child who seemed alone and friendless, and from his description she knew at once that it was Madeleine.

Without a cent in the world or the means of getting one—for she had sold her last ring to pay her child's passage money—she set out on foot. After getting to Paris and finding no tidings of the child at the office she walked on, inquiring of all she met for her; but in vain. At last, overcome by hunger and fatigue and unable any longer to breast the storm, she lay down to die, and was praying for her child when a woman, in passing, stopped and spoke to her. From her she learned that Madame Teierry had taken in a little stranger, and hope gave her strength to go a little farther.

After resting, she began to tell the good woman the story of her life; but hardly had she said a dozen words when her hostess jumped up, exclaiming:

"Miss Marion; dear, dear Miss Marion!"

It was indeed Marion; and leaving them together, Pierre slipped out and soon returned with the Count de Narbonne.

The rest may be imagined. Restored to wealth, Jenny and her son were placed in important situations in their household and always treated as old and dear friends. Little Madeleine often whispered, when she felt uncommonly happy:

"Mamma, I am so glad I was God's little child! Hasn't he taken care of me?"

Here and There a Gem.

Satan always rocks the cradle when we sleep at our devotions.

Divine confidence can swim upon those seas which feeble reason cannot fathom.

If our religion is not true, we are bound to change it; if it is true, we are bound to propagate it.

Our Lord God doeth work like a printer, who setteth the letters backward; we see and feel with His setting, but we shall see the print yonder—in the life to come.

If sorrow could enter heaven, if a sigh could be heard there, or a tear roll down the cheek of a saint in light, it would be for lost opportunities, for time spent in neglect of God which might have been spent for his glory.

What would be wanting to make this world a kingdom of heaven, if that tender, profound, and sympathizing love practised and recommended by Jesus were paramount in every heart? Then, the loftiest and most glorious idea of human society would be realized.

Christ is a tried foundation. He has been tried by God and by devils; by many who are now in glory, and by others who are on the way there, and He has never failed. All the stones founded on Him become living stones, as they are all cemented together by the blood of Jesus.

Horrible, if True.

"Ma, yonder's a man wot's goin' a fishin." The speaker was a small boy, whose parents live in a cabin and cultivate a small patch of ground in the mountain west of Shippensburg, near the route of Vanderbilt's proposed South Pennsylvania Railroad.

Ma was busy washing clothes and made no reply. The youngster, impatient of such neglect, determined on a more personal appeal to her attention.

"Ma, may I go and see him dig bait?"

"Go 'long," said the materfamilias, curtly. The boy started off with a run, as he approached the object of his journey he slowed up, as if awed by a nearer view of the uncouth individual who was spading the rich bottom soil. The man's appearance was by no means reassuring. In fact, he looked almost savage. His angular and ungainly form was encased in coarse garments, apparently the work of an amateur tailor of the eighteenth century. Long, straggling, unkempt hair and beard and a scowl on the narrow forehead that overhung his small, piggish eyes made him still less prepossessing.

Near the man stood a large tin can, half-filled with the ordinary earth-worms used for fish bait. Occasionally his spade would uncover a fresh colony of worms, and with an inarticulate grunt the Hungarian digger would pick out as many as he could catch while they tried to bury themselves again and drop them into the can.

"Mister, may I go a fishing with you?" asked the small boy, after he had recovered enough courage to address the Hungarian. "I know a bully hole down here in the crik," and he looked longingly into the can of worms, as if enjoying the day's sport in anticipation.

"Me no go a fishing," replied the Hungarian.

"What are you goin' to do with the worms then, mister?"

"Me make a worm pot-pie. You come-a with me, I show you," and he shouldered the spade and took the can into his bosom as if it had been a clean baby.

Too full of surprise to speak the boy followed the Hungarian around the hill to a row of shanties, were several other Hungarians were cooking. A half grown Hungarian boy was skinning rats and mice for dinner. Another was busily engaged in cracking snails between stones as if they were walnuts and depositing the snails in an iron pot for soup. When the man with the can arrived half a dozen clustered around him and peeped in to see how many worms he had, then gave vent to their satisfaction in grunts of joy. One of them tried to drive the boy away, but a word from the digger made him shut up.

The worms were washed and then put into an oven, and flour and lard placed over them. This was put on the fire to bake and in half an hour the worms were ready for a Polonius banquet—not where they eat, but where they are eaten. The boy was invited, but didn't stay. Seeing was good enough for him.

Luminous trees are reported to be growing in a valley near Tuscarora, Nevada. At certain seasons the foliage gives out sufficient light to enable any one near at hand to read small print, while the luminous general effect may be perceived some miles distant. The phenomenon is attributed to parasites.

A curious discovery was made recently when a lightning rod, which had been in place fifteen years embedded in soft clay, was removed. There was found attached to it a solid lump of iron ore weighing ninety-six pounds, supposed to have been produced by the conversion of the clay by the action of electricity.

The Chinese regard an attack of epilepsy as the occupancy of a man's body by the spirit of an animal—usually a pig or a sheep. They try to keep such spirit by stuffing the patient's mouth with grass, for if it leaves before the return of the man's own spirit—which must be absent during the fit—the man will die.

In Lapland, where the nights are from three to six months long, beaux often kiss their sweetheart "good night" about six weeks before daybreak. Their stock of caramels, peanuts and small talk becomes exhausted by that time.

Speak Reverently.

When Prince Bismarck, the great German statesman, was a lad, his father once overheard him speaking of the emperor as "Fritz." He reproved him for the familiarity, and added, "Learn to speak reverently of his majesty, and you will grow to think of him with veneration."

The words made a deep impression on the boy which was never effaced. Even in his old age he lowers his voice and assumes a respectful tone whenever he speaks of his sovereign. If a message is brought to him from the palace, either verbal or written, he always stands to receive it.

What a lesson is the custom of this great statesman to boys who speak so lightly, if not profanely, the name of the King of kings!

The fault is not confined to them. The growing irreverence of the age is very marked. The words of God are bandied about in the daily prints as lightly as if they were the words of the court jester. Some fine-spun piece of political sarcasm, parodying some scene in Scripture, is often found in a morning paper, and is laughed over by thousands. The travesty will ever be associated with the sacred words, especially in the minds of the young. A full-page picture in our best illustrated newspaper one morning represented St. Peter as seated in a great arm-chair before the gate of heaven, with keys hanging by his side, busily reading the daily paper, and deciding not to admit certain parties. It was only one of many similar pictures. It is not enough that Christian parents should seek to hide their smiles over such caricatures, or should mildly deprecate the irreverence. They should set their faces like a flint against them. Such a course would be felt, as in the case of Prince Bismarck.

It is very easy to lower our standard of reverence for anything. We have only to speak of it habitually in a light way. There is nothing like it to take the life out of the most precious texts of Scripture. We may repent of such sin with bitter weeping, but those words can never be to us again what they were before. We may have cut down a bridge we shall some day vainly long to cross.

A gentleman of keen wit used often to point his remarks with some apt quotation from the Bible. A friend who greatly admired him was present in his last hours, and asked with deep sympathy what was the future outlook.

"Very gloomy, indeed," was his response.

Surprised and deeply pained, he hastened to quote some precious promises suited to the solemn hour.

"I have spoiled them all for myself," was his answer. "There is not one but is associated with some jest."

His light went out in darkness, though his name was on the church roll. What a lesson is here for all who are willing to be taught by it. Lay it to heart.—The Life Boat.

Gliding on Glass in Glory.

From St Paul Herald.

"Oh, George!" said Sylvia to her future lord and master as he lapped the powder of her cheek, "I do love you, but I cannot go to the rink with you any more."

"And why not, pray?" said George.

"The minister says it is wrong," replied Sylvia, sobbing.

"Since when have you become so attentive to the minister's counsel? It was yesterday you called him a meddling old fogy."

"But I want to go to Heaven.

"So do we all I hope."

"But, George, dear, I cannot go to Heaven if I go to the rink."

"But why this sudden longing for Heaven?"

"Oh, George," said Sylvia, "you ought to have heard Mr. Vane read the lesson yesterday. There is to be sea of glass there."

"Well, what of that?"

"And we are never to grow tired or sleepy."

"Well?"

"And it will last for ever an ever."

"Yes?"

"Oh, George, think of the daisy skating there will be!"

The Globe tells of a boarding-house where one of the boarders ate at dinner "two oyster stews, a good-sized sirloin steak, an order of fresh mackerel, a plate of French crackers, biscuits, strawberries and cream, pudding and pie," and then adds, "Such men wonder why they have the dyspepsia." The wonder is not so much that such men have the dyspepsia as that such a boarding-house exists in the city.—Boston Transcript.

The Tramp's Error.

From the Detroit Free Press.

A tramp who called at a farm house to ask for a cold bite was almost paralyzed at being welcomed with smiles and kind words and having a fine repast laid out for him. In explanation, the woman said that he reminded her of her long lost cousin.

At the next house the tramp at once announced that he was the woman's long lost brother, but in place of smiles and mince pie, the woman siezed a broom-stick and went for him, saying:

"Slide out, you villian! They were all girls in our family."

In Praise of Gladstone.

Of Gladstone recently the Rev. R. Heber Newton, of New York, spoke in his sermon on "Obedience to the Heavenly Vision," as follows:

"A generation ago a man entered public life in England with the highest possible ideas—ideas which called him to make of statesmanship a service of man, a worship of God. When he was too steadfast to the heavenly vision he lost power. Out of power he was as true to his vision as though no failure had crowned him with thorns. He never sought to buy his way back to the Premiership by lowering his ideas. He has never, so far as I can see, really turned aside from following after that heavenly vision of his youth. England, at his prompting, has dared to decide a quarrel against itself, and the proudest empire on earth, under his leadership, was true enough to its better nature to yield in South Africa the claims of the Boers against the popular clamor for war, in the face of a national humiliation, because those claims were just.

"And now, when the irony of fate has thrust this lover of peace into the vestibule of war, forced this friend of Russia into the position of its foe, with what superb self-command, with what calm strengthfulness he is exhausting every resource of diplomacy to prevent the horrors of a great war, making no threats, breathing no bluster, passing no judgment until the evidence is all in, and yet, with an air of resolution that allows of no misunderstanding, preparing vigorously for the inevitable—a giant donning his armor with an aching heart and a face in tears. Magnificent spectacle of a Christian manhood. Though he were to fall amid the clash of arms, overborne by the responsibilities of an awful war, he could in dying smile and say, 'I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision.'"

Advantages of Weeping.

A French physician gives a long dissertation on the advantages of groaning and crying in general, and especially during surgical operations. He contends that groaning and crying are two grand operations by which nature allays anguish; that those patients who give way to their natural feelings more speedily recover from accidents and operations than those who suppose it unworthy in a man to betray such symptoms of cowardice as either to groan or cry. He tells of a man who reduced his pulse from 126 to 60 in the course of a few hours by giving full vent to his emotions. If people are at all unhappy about anything let them go into their rooms and comfort themselves with a loud boo-hoo, and they will feel 100 per cent better afterwards. In accordance with the above the crying of children should not be too greatly discouraged. What is natural is nearly always useful, and nothing can be more natural than crying of children when anything occurs to give them either physical or mental pain.

The Dallas Woman's Smartness.

Texas Siftings.

Mrs. Peterby, of Dallas, is a woman with a head for business.

"Just see here, I have bought a beautiful rocking chair at auction worth three dollars, and I only paid two dollars for it, so you see I have saved one dollar clear profit. Don't tell me after this that women have no business sense."

"Do you need the rocking chair?" asked Mr. Peterby.

"No."

"Then what did you buy it for?

"To save money, of course. How could I have saved that dollar if I hadn't bought it, stupid."

Correspondents must be more careful in their descriptions of junketing trips in which they take part. In a morning contemporary, where "Howard" describes General Grant's journey from Saratoga to Boston, on the General's first visit here, by way of Albany, Pittsfield and Springfield, twenty years ago, the distinguished guest is passed through the Hoosac Tunnel, and is made to say that it is "a great work"—years before it was opened.

Where the Fire is Out.

"Haroum of Aleppo" said Sir Philip Derval, "had mastered every secret in nature which the nobler magic seeks to fathom. He discovered that the true art of healing is to assist Nature to throw off the disease—to summon, as it were, the whole system to eject the enemy that has fastened on a part. His processes all included the reinvigoration of the principle of life."

In this the Eastern sage merely anticipated the practice of the best physicians of to-day. What life itself is, nobody knew then—nobody knows now. But we have learned something of the reasons why the mysterious tide rises and falls. Provided the great organs of the body are not irreparably destroyed, medical science can always relieve, and often save. Yet no reputable physician now adheres to the barbarous and stupid processes of depletion, such as bleeding, by which it was attempted to cure disease by reducing the patient's ability to resist it. Now-a-days we do not tear down the fort to help the garrison—we strengthen it.

In this intelligent and benificent work it is conceded that PARKER'S TONIC leads all other medicines. As an invigorant it acts immediately and powerfully upon the circulation and the organs of digestion, thus giving Nature the assistance she calls for. It follows that all ailments of the stomach, kidneys and liver are at once relieved or cured. No other preparation embodies the same qualities or produces similar results. It is delicious to use, and the best known anti intoxicant. Price 50c. and $1 HISCOX & Co., New York. 18 4t

SCROFULA

Usually develops in early life, and is a peculiar morbid condition of the system, usually affecting the glands, often resulting in swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, thickening of the lips, enlarged neck, sore eyes. A scrofulous condition is often hereditary, but bad diet, too free use of fat meats, bad air, want of sunshine and nourishing food will induce it. Some people are troubled with scrofulous swelling of the glands, and with ulcers and kernels, which may cause very little pain; others may have inward scrofula, scrofula of the lungs, scrofula of the spleen, scrofula of the kidneys, and scrofula of the bones. BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS will drive away any case of scrofula and not to appear in another place, for their action on the blood and bowels will carry the disease entirely from the body.

LATEST TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

A School Girl Elopes.

CHICAGO, May 8.—Up to Saturday night there was domiciled at the Sherman House in this city a young woman who was down on the hotel register as Mrs Shober, Cincinnati. On April 23 Miss Emma Shober mysteriously disappeared from the French school, the most pretentious, institution of learning in Cincinnati. She was the daughter of a well-known deceased banker of Canton, Ohio, and sole heiress of a very wealthy couple Mr. and Mrs. Sellers, of Carrollton, Ohio.

Two days after the disappearance Ab. Rubman, an actor, announced that he and Miss Emma had been married, but gave no clue to her whereabouts. The grandparents at Carrollton were notified that the heiress to their wealth was ensconced at the Sherman House and came here quickly, but "Mrs Shober" had again disappeared. The hotel authorities declare that the Cincinnati schoolgirl is, they believe, still in the city. She left a note for a gentleman, whose name is suppressed.

Mountaineers Arrested.

LANCASTER, May 11.—Ever since the big reward was offered for Abe Buzzard great efforts have been made to capture the outlaw. Yesterday the mountain was filled with people, who kept up the hunt nearly all night. Every nook and corner was searched and fire-arms were constantly being discharged, but all to no purpose. Abe is believed to have escaped and if in the county he has changed his headquarters to the Ephrata Hills. This morning a large party of Welsh Mountaineers arrived in this city in answer to a decoy subœna, to appear as witnesses before Alderman Spurrier. After they were in the office nine were arrested and taken to jail on the charge of aiding and abetting Abe Buzzard to escape. Among those arrested are John and Mart Buzzard, his brothers. The prisoners were very indignant at the trick.

General Grant's Rest Disturbed.

NEW YORK, May 11.—During the early part of last night General Grant experienced considerable pain in his throat. He was restless Soon after midnight he slept, but his sleep was not continuous. He awakened at intervals, and food was given him through the night. It was 10 o'clock this morning before he aroused for the day and was dressed. He had slept about the usual number of hours, though his sleep had been interrupted as stated. Dr. Douglass remained all night, and left the general asleep at 9 o'clock. During the forenoon General Grant turned his attention to his book and did some work upon it.

State Legislature.

HARRISBURG, May 12.—In the House this afternoon a joint resolution was defeated proposing a constitutional amendment to reduce the membership of the House to 100.

Senate Bill to prevent the adulteration of dairy product and fraud in the sale thereof was passed finally.

The Senate and House have both passed over the Governor's veto the bill providing for the burial of soldiers who die in indigent circumstances.

Two Deaths.

CLEVELAND, May 11.—Ex-Mayor N. P. Payne, son of Senator H. B. Payne and brother-in law of Secretary Whitney, died at his home on Euclid avenue this morning of heart disease. He was 48 years of age.

NEW YORK, May 11.—Ex-Governor Gilbert C. Walker, of Virginia, died at his residence in this city, at 3 o'clock this morning, in the 52d year of his age. Death was caused by consumption and heart disease.

A Steamer Sinks.

HALIFAX, May 11.—The White Cross line Belgian steamship Helvetia, 1,161 tons, with a general cargo, start-from Antwerp on April 23d, for Montreal, was sunk off Scatteric, Cape Breton, on Saturday. This is the fourth steamer of that line which has been lost within as many years. The steamer August C. Andre sailed from New York for Antwerp and was never heard of. In the fall of 1883 the Herman Ludwig sailed from Montreal for Antwerp with a crew of thirty men and a valuable cargo, and that was the last that was heard of her. Only thirteen months ago the Daniel Steinman crashed on the rocks at Sambro Islands, and 124 lives were lost. The Helvetia makes the fourth vessel that has met with disaster. A remarkable coincidence is that Captain Schoonhaven, who commanded the Daniel Steinman, was also in command of the Helvetia, and this was the first passage across the Atlantic which he has made since the wreck of the Steinman.

The Helvetia arrived in the Gulf of St. Lawrence over a week ago and has been knocking about in the ice for seven or eight days. Her bows were stove in and she was otherwise damaged by the ice. She was leaking badly. On Friday Captain Shoonhaven left Cape Rav and bore up for Sydney, having all he could do to keep the ship afloat. On Saturday a a heavy sea sprang up and he hailed the Allan line steamer Acadian, which was passing, while on a voyage from Halifax to Sydney. The Acadian took the Helvetia in tow and headed for Lewisburg, but had not gone far before Captain Shoonhaven signaled that he was sinking. Boats were lowered and the passengers and crew got into them as soon as possible, but none too soon. The last boat had hardly got clear before the Helvetia careened over and sunk. The seamer Acadain then put back to Strait Canso and landed the survivors at Fort Hawkesbury.

Captain Farquhar, of the sealing steamer George Chattuck, this morning reports he never knew of such enormous quantities of ice off the coast. The Helvetia carried a cargo valued at $400,000, and sunk in deep water.

Appointments by the President.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The president to-day made the following appointments: William A. Seay, of Louisiana, to be minister resident and consul general of the United States to Bolivia; to be consuls general of the United States: Ephraim B. Ewing, of Missouri, at the city of Mexico; H. Clay Armstrong, at Rio de Janeiro; to be consuls of the United States: Gustavus Lucks, of New Hampshire, at Sherbrooke, Canada; Peter Staub, of Tennessee, at St. Galle; Henry M. Keimo, of Pennsylvania, at Charlottetown, P E. I.; John M. Strong, of New York, at Belleville, Canada; Alexander Bertrand, of New York, at St Johns, Quebec; Louis N. Minnie, of Michigan, at Port Sarnie; John H. Oberly, of Illinois, to be Indian school superintendent, vice James M. Haworth, deceased; Lewis C. Bartlett, of Birmingham, N. Y., to be second deputy commissioner of pensions, vice N. P. Loveridge, resigned.

Bigler Takes His Commission.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Mr. E. A. Bigler's commission as collector of the Twenty-third district was made out to-day, and the new-made official left the city on an afternoon train. Some doubt was expressed as to whether Mr. Bigler would accept the office, but these doubts were dispelled to-day. He was accompanied by Senator King. It is said King has been figuring for the United States marshalship of Eastern Pennsylvania. The senator had an interview with Mr. Randall this afternoon, and two or three interviews with Governor Curtin. King thinks he would make a good marshal, but if he can't get that he is willing to take anything better, as a side dish, if such should be offered him.

Refuse to Accede to the Demands.

HARRISBURG, May 11.—The proprietors of the Chesapeake nail works at a conference with striking helpers to-day refused to accede to the demand for an increase and stated that they would rather shut down the works indefinitely. To-night the helpers, thirty six in number, were ordered to call and get their money as their services would be no longer needed. A nail factory will resume operations in full to-morrow, and it is likely the puddlers will "double up" until other arrangements for helpers can be made.

Nineteen Days on an Ice-Floe.

ST. JOHNS, May 9.—The Newfoundland sealer Young Prince came into collision with an iceberg in the Gulf of St. Lawrence on the 19th ultimo. She sank almost immediately, barely giving the crew time to save provisions and clothing. The crew, numbering thirty-two men, lived on the ice-floe for nineteen days, subjected to the rigors of the weather. Yesterday they were descried by the French brig Etoile des Mers and were all landed in good condition at St. Pierre.

Murphy's Temperance Work.

PITTSBURG, May 10.—The interest in the Murphy temperance movement is on an increase. Hundreds were unable to gain admission tonight to library hall where the meeting was held and the auditorium was so densely packed that several women fainted. Crowds on the outside broke down the doors in their efforts to get in and the police were finally compelled to disperse them. Over 400 persons signed the pledge.

A Fire-Trap.

CHICAGO, May 12.—A special committee of the city council have submitted a report declaring the hall used for the recent opera festival to be a fire trap. The report notes many flagrant violations of ordinances having for their object the prevention of disastrous conflagrations in places of public amusement.

New Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The president to-day appointed the following postmasters: Maurice Litsch, at Mahanoy City, Pa., vice Jacob L. Bricker, commission expired; John Slack, at Bristol, Penn., vice William Muilinix, commission expired; Mary H. Edwards, at Cleveland, Tenn., vice Williams S. Tipton, commission expired; Harvey C. Moore, at Broadhead, Wis., vice W. Beebe, suspended Mrs. O. A. Hastings, at Port Gibson; Miss., vice Thomas Richardson, commission expired. J. S. Meade, at Hazlehurst, Miss., vice George E. Matthews. Commission expired. Postmaster General Vilas says that the cause of the suspension of B. W. Boebe, postmaster of Broadhead, Wis., was that the postmaster was negligent, and the monies due the government were not kept separate as they should be. Within the past year the office had to be inspected five times, and inspectors were constantly reporting the postmaster as neglectful, and urging his removal.

A Suit for $100,000 Damages.

ERIE, May 11.—The second trial of Louis Rosenzweig's $100,000 suit against the Lake Shore Railroad for personal damages sustained by being ejected from the New York express began to-day. A sensation was created when the railroad moved the Court for an order to chloroform the plaintiff so that experimental tests might be made on his alleged paralyzed limbs. Rosenzweig offered to submit, but the family physician swore he would not be responsible for his patient's life. Judge Galbrath peremptorily overruled the motion, stating that after the plaintiff had submitted to electric and other tests for three hours by defendant's doctors it was carrying the thing too far to ask that he be made insensible with defendant's drugs and at the risk of his life.

Raid by Burglars.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., May 12.—Eight dwelling houses in Petersburg, this county, and vicinity were entered and robbed by burglars on Saturday night. Sunday night some trainmen on the Pennsylvania railroad saw a light in a vacant school house just below town and on going to it three or four men jumped from a rear window, ran into the woods and escaped. The door was then broken open and a great quantity of stolen goods, consisting of silverware, table linen, household utensils of all kinds, bread, butter, meat and other articles were found. The place seemed to be a general receptacle for the plunder of the thieves. The goods were put on the train and taken to Altoona and will be returned to the owners.

The Troubles of a Sheriff.

FAYETTE CITY, May 11.—The widow Lynn, of Washington Township, Fayette County, having failed to keep up the payments of installments on an organ which she was buying, Sheriff Sterling to-day proceeded to put up a notice on her house that he would sell the organ on a certain day to meet the debt. He was interrupted by the widow, who ran out of the house armed with a horsewhip and severely chastised him. The Sheriff shouted for help, appealed for mercy and vented savage epithets, and then young Master Lynn rushed in and pummeled him with all the energy of an embryo pugilist. The Sheriff ingloriously took to his heels.

Perfectly Correct.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The count of moneys and securities in the United States treasury has been completed. Everything was found in a satisfactory condition, and the reports of ex-Treasurer Wyman were proved in every instance. Even the alleged discrepancy of two cents reported in the count of the cash room was shown on a recount to be incorrect. The missing pennies were subsequently found on the floor where they had dropped during the progress of the count. The books and accounts of the treasurer's office are yet to be verified.

Sentenced.

MT. CARMEL, May 9.—District Attorney Mahan, of Sunbury, yesterday instructed the constables in this county to close all disreputable houses and arrest the proprietors. This morning his instructions were carried out and a number of these people were brought before Judge Rockefeller, and pleading guilty were sentenced to two years' imprisonment and to pay fines ranging from three to four hundred dollars.

Suicide of a Business Man.

HARRISBURG, May 9.—H. A. W. Walkemeyer, one of the most prominent business men of this city, committed suicide to-day by shooting himself through the heart. Judgments to the amount of $10,000 had been entered against him, and yesterday the sheriff levied on his property. He has carried on an extensive ice business in this city and was thought to be wealthy.

A Negro Lynched.

FLORENCE, Ala., May 9.—On Wednesday evening, near Allsborough, Colbert county, a negro named Malone criminally assaulted a young lady. Seizing him, she screamed for assistance. Her father captured the fiend and lodged him in Tuscumbia jail. Early this morning a mob took Malone out and hanged him. He hailed from Pulaski, Tenn.

Death of a Retired Merchant.

PHŒNIXVILLE, May 10.—Samuel Corrett, a retired merchant of this place, died to-day. He was a candidate for state treasurer on the prohibition ticket in 1877 and for state senator in 1880.

Decide to Strike.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 10.—The helpers at Bailey's Chesapeake nail works have decided to strike to-morrow for an increase from 28 to 33 cents per heat. This action will throw about 400 men out of employment.

The Trouble in the North.

WINNIPEG, May 12.—Advices received here indicate that Middleton's forces were engaged all day Sunday shelling Riel's men from an entrenched position. Two of the troops were killed and twelve or fifteen wounded. Details will be probably sent as soon as the wire is working west. When Middleton's courier left on Sunday evening for Clarke's Crossing it was the plan to resume the attack some time to-day.

A $10,000 Fire.

READING, May 12.—William Leibenspergen's large Swiss Barn at Maselem, this county, was burned to-night, together with a large number of live stock, several hundred tons of hay and straw, and a great quantity of grain. Loss over $10,000.

The Plymouth Scourge.

WILKESBARRE, May 12.—Two deaths have occurred at Plymouth since last night. Reports from there this evening are of a more cheering character. No new cases are announced.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

Vindication.

HEADQ'RS GROVE BROTHERS POST, No. 262, G. A. R., DEP'T. OF PA. HOWARD, Pa., May 9th, '85.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by this Post and copies of same ordered to be furnished the county papers with a request for their publication:

WHEREAS, Our Post chaplain, Rev. Owen Hicks, pastor of the M. E. church at this place, has by three members of said church been charged with improper conduct, viz: "being on the streets of our town taking part in music furnished by a drum corps;" and

WHEREAS, Said reverend gentleman was a drummer boy in the Union army till near the close of the war of '61 to '65, when he was promoted to orderly sergeant of his company, and so "mustered out" in 1865, and did last autumn take part in furnishing some martial music at two different suppers; gotten up to aid two different families, (one in town and one out), the latter an old soldier and member of our Post, whose house with his household goods had been destroyed by fire; and the former whose house and factory met the same fate; did the same by request of comrades; therefore

Resolved, That this Post tender to our chaplain our sympathy, and do heartily endorse and sustain him in his deportment as a minister, ex-soldier and gentleman.

Resolved, That we consider our chaplain, by his faithful service in the war for the Union, earned the right and privilege he exercised last Fall in our midst, and if it was improper to do so then, it was equally so in '61 to '65, when our National music cheered us in camp and field. As honest citizens we can have no sympathy with that selfish sentiment that would forbid the recalling of memories so sacred and dear to every comrade's heart and seek to censure a comrade, though a minister, for taking a needed and innocent part in adding to an evening's work of Charity—by the use of fife and drum. And be it further

Resolved, That as citizens and ex-soldiers we denounce the growing spirit observed in various localities of speaking lightly of the hardships endured and work done by our "Boys in Blue" during the war for the Union.

Buried in Baptism.

On Sunday, about noon, a religious event of importance occurred a mile below Unionville. It was the immersion in the waters of Bald Eagle Creek of twenty-two persons, ten males and twelve females. Rev. Penny, an Advent minister, officiated.

The scene was an interesting one and at least 300 people from the vicinity and as far away as Bellefonte, Snow Shoe and Tyrone gathered on the banks of the pretty stream to witness the spectacle. The officiating priest stood in the stream, the water reaching almost to his armpits. One by one the candidates for baptism entered the water and the sacred rite was solemnly performed. Those who were baptised seemed to be very happy and did not manifest any unusual agitation. One woman struggled a little when in the water, but in other respects the effect of the cold water was not apparent as each person was in turn buried for a moment beneath the sparkling element. Those on the bank became considerably excited, one little girl fainting and several women screaming aloud in their agitation. The ceremony lasted until about 1:30 o'clock.

—We cannot give our readers any very encouraging news concerning the Buffalo Run, Bellefonte and Bald Eagle R. R. We understand that General Beaver expects to have an important conference with the Collins Brothers and others on the subject while he is in Philadelphia.

It is Said—

That Aaron Goldsmith put on considerable style as he drove up the avenue Tuesday afternoon.

That Philipsburg has great attractions for Walter Bayard.

That Ed. Kitzmiller and R. C. Cole expect to throw open the doors of the skating rink to the public for one day and evening only, May 30th.

That the ladies' new Spring bonnets come a little nearer perfection this season than ever before.

That Spring may come, and summer, too, but the steam heat bills come in as ever.

That Durbin Gray—concluded we wouldn't say anything about it. Suppose you will all hear about it when it comes off.

That the electric lights inserted inside the old gas cages around town would throw out more light if the glass could be washed, or broken out altogether.

—On Monday morning a man named John Currens was severely injured while working near the intersection of the railroad and South Water St. Some men were at work in removing what was at one time a telephone pole when the pole fell, striking Mr. Currens on the shoulder. We understand that his shoulder was broken by the force of the blow. He narrowly escaped receiving the blow on his head, in which event death would probably have been the result.

—Mr. Louis Schad, a well known and much esteemed young man residing near the car works in this place, died on Wednesday after six weeks illness. He was about 23 years of age. The funeral will take place at his father's residence on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

SPECIAL MENTION.

—Pine apples, round and luscious, are in the market.

—Large line of whips at Schofield's.

—The resignation of Dr. Geissinger as second lieutenant of Company B, N. G., has been accepted. It will be difficult for the company to find a more handsome or capable officer.

Our Spring Stock of WOOLENS now complete. Bottom prices. Leave your order to-day.
16 36 MONTGOMERY & Co., Tailors.

—The property occupied as a residence by the Messrs. Goldsmith is receiving some very important improvements which will add to its appearance.

—Good No 1. set of nickle plated harness at Schofield's, for $15.50.

—A large number of men are at work on various portions of the burned district and Mr. T. R. Reynolds' building seems to be progressing fastest.

—Get Schofield's prices on heavy and light harness before purchasing elsewhere.

—The ground in front of Major Wm. Reynolds' handsome residence is being beautifully graded and covered with fine sods.

The Greatest Novelty of the Age.

A self-cleansing curry comb at Schofield's celebrated harness shop should be seen by all persons using curry combs, before buying any other kind. We examined it and pronounce it the most wonderful we ever saw. It does away with hammering down the manger and battering the horse's hoofs off, as in cleaning other curry combs. This curry-comb is no higher in price than the common comb.

—The large addition to the rear of Jas. Harris' new building is being constructed quite rapidly.

—The best harness in the county is made at Schofield's.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The May number of the Century has put in its appearance on our table and we pronounce it one of the best issues yet produced by that company. It is one of those periodicals that continues growing better with every succeeding issue. In this number we find many of the most interesting features ever published in any periodical. As one article of interest, we notice a paper on "Immortality and Modern Thought." It is no light fabricated discussion, neither is it a summary of past accomplishments, but the strain in which it is given proves that the writer, Rev. T. T. Munger, has given the subject deep thought and careful study. It also contains a number of war features which are very interesting as well as instructive, as well as a great variety of other matter of just such a high standard as that above named. It is illustrated with superior engravings and made most artistic throughout. Published by the Century Publishing Co., New York.

One of the best magazines for the young folks is St. Nicholas, and the May number of this periodical is filled with only such literature as will produce a yearning for the highest standard of reading matter procurable. It numbers among its contributors such authors of eminence as E. P. Roe, whose latest serial, "Driven back to Eden," is continued in this number. J. T. Trowbridge, Alice Maud Eddy, Edmund Alton and others of equal prominence and ability as writers. We would like to see St. Nicholas in every house in the land as it has a wonderful refining influence. Published by the Century Publishing Co., New York.

The Inland Printer for April proves to be an uninterrupted collection of the choicest articles. As a usual thing it is very good, but this issue is exceptionally interesting and instructive. It is not only of interest to printers, but to the mass of the reading public its general contents are dedicated. One most beautiful wood engraving illuminates the pages of the April number. Choice poetry and select articles constitute the matter on its pages. Published by the Inland Printer Pub. Co., Monroe street, Chicago.

Harper's Magazine for May opens with a suggestive and very beautiful frontispiece entitled "Spring Blossoms," a drawing by Howard Pyle. A very novel and attractive paper by Mr. B. E. Martin, "Through London by Canal," The second of F. D. Millet's Baltic Sketches, "At the Red Glove and Fast Angles," is continued in this number. Mr. George W. Curtis in the Easy Chair and Mr. Charles D. Warner in the Drawer, contribute much to make Harper's very attractive and interesting. For good, scientific cultivated reading send $4 to Harper & Brother for a year's subscription to Harper's Magazine. Published in Franklin Square, New York.

Golden Days for May, embracing the weekly issues from April 11th to May 2nd, is received and looked over. The first story, "The Story of the Spoondrifters," by T. B. Goddard, is one of the most interesting as well as humorous productions extant. "A Peculiar Girl; or, the Alden Fortune," by Frank H. Converse, is contributed in this number. A boarding school story entitled "Bagley Hall" forms another humorous chapter, and is complete in this number. To enumerate all the valuable reading would occupy too much space, but we can say that never before have we seen equaled the wonderful amount of good moral literature of such a high standard as that which makes up the May number of Golden Days. It should be perused by every boy and girl in the land. Only $3 a year. Published by James Elverson, Philadelphia, Pa.

Mr. Thos. Balling, of Bald Eagle' met with what might have been a serious accident on Saturday last. Pine Grove Mills Budget.

PINE GROVE MILLS, May 11.

The cold weather and snow storms still continue, yet our farmers are putting out their spring crops. Many of them are almost through planting corn.

Among the recent visitors to our village and vicinity we especially note a "young candidate for the Presidency" who made his appearance at the residence of Mr. Uriah Evey, on the Mitchell farm, one day last week If he should never be so unfortunate as to be President he will at least be a good Republican voter in about twenty-one years from now.

Rev. Mr. Gemmil, an old acquaintance in this place, and at one time a student of Pine Grove Academy, was in town over Sunday holding communion services for the Presbyterian congregation at this place. His many friends and old acquaintances were very glad to see him and hope he will repeat his pleasant call.

The people of this locality were favored to-day with a lecture by Mrs. S. L. McLaughlan, of Boston, Mass. She was greeted with a very fair audience considering the busy season of the year, and was listened to with the best of attention. Her arguments are forcible and impressive and her style exceedingly agreeable. Every one seemed pleased and spoke of the address in the highest terms of praise.

Mr. Pearsol Lytle, is having his residence repaired. The carpenters are at present busy at work and will no doubt fix things up in the best possible style for our old and respected neighbor.

The G. A. R. Post at this place is making active preparations for the due observance of Memorial day. They expect to decorate the graves in the various cemeteries of the neighborhood with due reverence and respect for our dead heroes.

The base ball mania is breaking out in our village. Liniment agents are invited to call and see us. **

—During the past week the most beautiful floral attraction in Bellefonte has been the magnolia tree in front of J. W. Gephart's residence. It is covere d with large, beautiful blossoms, and looks like a mammoth bouquet. This species of the magnolia appears to be quite hardy and the wonder is that it is not more extensively cultivated, blossoming as it does so early in the season and surviving uninjured the severely cold weather of this climate.

—We see by the city papers that there are some parties going to dam the Schuylkill river. We don't blame them any. If we had to drink Schuylkill water, we'd feel like talking Dutch to.

—The New York and Pennsylvania Inter-State Trotting Circuit will hold its first meeting at Elmira, N. Y., on the 2d, 3d, 4th and 5th of June. On the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th of the same month Old Oaks Park, Williamsport, will be the scene of the races, and on the 16th, 17th, 18th and 19th the sport will be transferred to St. Mary's, Pa. The people in this vicinity will be chiefly interested in the races at Old Oaks Park. This place has been fitted up in first-class style by its enterprising proprietor, Hon. J. C. Walker, and the prospects are that there will be a fine string of flyers and the event will be highly successful. The purse for each race at the Park will be $400; the combined purses for the eight races reaching $3200. Those interested should address J. C. Brown, Secretary, Williamsport, Pa.

Medical

HEALTH-STRENGTH-LONG LIFE

SECURED BY THE USE OF

Crosby's Vitalized Phos-phites;

Nature's own BRAIN AND NERVE FOOD.

This preparation is one of the greatest triumphs of modern chemical science. It is at the same time a remedial agent, and a natural food. It restores exhausted and wasted functions of the brain and nerves, and its daily use, while in health will prevent such exhaustion and waste. This is the only preparation of Phosphorous that has received the approbation of the entire medical profession in this country and in Europe,

Over a MILLION PACKAGES have been prescribed by Physicians in the United States.

SETIHP-SOH PHOS-PHITES

DEZILATIV

CROSBY'S
Vitalized Phosphites

Is a phosphoid or nerve-giving principle extracted from the ox brain and and wheat germ. It does not contain any of the animal substance of the brain, but the phosphoric principles dissolved in boiling alcohol and filtered from the brain substance. It is passed through felt filters, carefully dried and mixed with a little oven-dried flour from the germ of the wheat. Ephraim Cutter, A. M., M. D., in his microscopic analysis, testifies that it contains none of the substance of the ox brain; the active phosphites only are present.

By a careful and elaborate chemical analysis made by Prof. Percy, it was proved to be composed of the vital and nerve-giving principles of animal and vegetable life. The brains of animals and of fish contain an oily, nitrogenous hypo-phosphite, which, when separated from the fleshy part of the brain, is found to be a nerve-sustaining principle of animal life. It is entirely different in its effects from any compound made by chemists in the laboratory; the VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE contains in the highest degree this life-sustaining power; it requires no preparation or change in the stomach, but is in condition to be immediately assimilated into the blood, and ready for appropriation by the brain and nerves; it is essentially a special Brain and Nerve Food. Nature, not art, has prepared it for immediate assimilation.

In many forms of disease the digestion is so imperfect that chemical compounds, or even food, is not digested well enough to be assimilated and changed into blood. This VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE needs no digestion, it is assimilated at once, because it is in the exact condition found in all nervous structure, and is deposited in the nerve structure in the same condition as it was taken from it.

WHY HAVE PHYSICIANS
PRESCRIBED OVER HALF A MILLION PACKAGES OF VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES
And found this Brain and Nerve Food indispensible in the treatment of all diseases of debility, and in all mental or nervous disorders?

Because it is not a secret remedy; they know what they are prescribing; the formula is on every package. Because it is one of those perfect preparations that seldom disappoint them.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Feb. 1st, 1882.

I have prescribed your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES extensively for the past seven years. I have found it invaluable in the treatment of debility, in diseases of the nervous system, and as a Tonic where the vital forces were at a low ebb. E. W. FINCH, M. D.

LANDON R. EDWARDS, M. D., Editor of the Virginia Medical Monthly, says: "I have prescribed VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES in several instances, and have also induced friends to use it. Our successes will make us prescribe it frequently."

AM. METALINE CO., 204 Greene St., N. Y.

Some three years ago my friend DR. STEARNS, Superintendent of the Insane Asylum in Hartford, told me how highly he prized VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES, and advised me to use the remedy with my many friends suffering with overwork of the brain. Knowing that I was one of the "overworked," I made the first trial on myself. The change in my health within two months after taking it was so satisfactory that I continue its use from time to time whenever I need it. I have not had a severe headache since I began its use; it was my great trouble before. I have prescribed it for very many of my friends—young, middle aged and old—and in every case with benefit. You have given me a Brain Food in the only condition in which it can be constantly taken without danger. Many medical men whom I have induced to use it on themselves now use it regularly in their practice. S. GWYNN, M. D.

GARRETTSVILLE, Ohio, June 28, 1882.

F. CROSBY Co.,

Gentlemen: Several years ago when suffering from congestion of the vessels at the base of the brain, resulting in terrible mental depression, Dr. Leonard Sanford, of the Yale Medical College, prescribed for me the VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES. The effect was excellent beyond all expectation; in two weeks I was a new man. Since my recovery I have recommended it to a number of my professional and other friends suffering from overwork, brain exhaustion, sleeplessness, spinal and nervous troubles and kindred complaints, and in many of these instances I have seen its good results. I have intended for some time to write to you in acknowledgement of the good effects, but I suppose you are overcrowded with letters of this sort.

R. A. TORREY, M. D.

TALLADEGA, Ala.

F. CROSBY CO.: I am wonderfully pleased with the effects of your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITES. It is the best remedy I have ever used for Nervous Debility. For the enclosed money, please send me more by this day's mail. PAUL GIST, M. D.

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio.

F. CROSBY: I have prescribed over 700 bottles of your VITALIZED PHOS-PHITE, and know it to be of the greatest value in restoring lost energy, relieving debility, nervousness, and preventing consumption.

Politics in Illinois.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 7.—A dispatch received here from Cass county states that outside of Schuyler county the republicans in the Thirty-fourth senatorial district were fifty or sixty ahead, but up to the present hour, 10.55 a. m., nothing has been heard from the former county, although many dispatches have been sent. The republicans in the house this morning were very confident that Weaver, republican, has been elected. Schuyler county is claimed to have been the best organized by the republicans and was not so strongly democratic in the last election as the other three counties in the district. The indications now are, without full returns being in, that the republican candidate is elected. If the republicans have carried the district it would give them 103 votes on joint ballot, and if the sitting and the other anti Logan republicans should consent to abide by the caucus decrees it would insure the election of a republican to the United States senate.

NOON.—The democrats now concede the election by from 150 to 200 majority. It is understood now that the returns from all the precincts except two are in, but have not been received here. So far the returns give Weaver 170 majority. Senator Johnson, democrat, sent a telegram to the junketing committee at New Orleans, conceding the election to the republicans.

12.15. p. m.—Lieutenant Governor Smith has just received a dispatch from Schuyler county stating that that county gives the republicans a majority of over 200. This, if true, seems to insure a republican majority.

The election of the republican was accomplished in the face of a large democratic majority, by a novel piece of political work. The republicans had refused to name a candidate in the district. The democrats had nominated their man but the poll was very light, as they knew of no opposition. The republicans had not been idle, however, and a thorough understanding existed among them from the leaders down. At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon their candidate was announced, and every republican voter was hunted up and marched to the polls.

England and Russia.

LONDON, May 8.—Baron De Stael, the Russian ambassador, imparted to Earl Granville to-day the substance of the note from M. De Giers with reference to a basis for the Afghan frontier negotiations. It is reported that the note is not satisfactory to the British government. A conference on the frontier question will be held on Tuesday. The differences between the two governments as to the terms upon which the question shall be referred to an arbitrator are becoming greater. Earl Granville in his discussion with Baron De Stael holds that Russia's acceptance of the arbitration must be absolute.

The rumors of black clouds mentioned in yesterday's dispatches are confirmed by the pessimistic tone of the continental authorities. This morning there is much of this despairing tone, and apparently of German origin. There is a growing feeling here of something wrong. This is expressed in the papers, and especially in private conversation. It was widely reported last night that Earl Dufferin had resigned as viceroy of India. This is certainly untrue; on the contrary, the Indian and home authorities are thoroughly agreed on the necessity of a breathing time. The reason of this is said to be England's position. India is not so strong as anticipated. The native press is unanimously enthusiastic in England's behalf, and the frontier force is insufficiently mobilized. This will explain why men and material are still being dispatched in haste to India. It is said that Mr. Gladstone has papers in reserve which will show a strong case for peace.

Reports from eastern Siberia are to the effect that armed bands of Chinese have crossed the frontier and surprised several Cossack villages.

Too much Water Spoils Things.

LOCKPORT, N. Y. May 8.—Water was let into the hydraulic race which runs around the brow of the hill in Lockport, last night, and about 1 o'clock this morning a new bulkhead just completed suddenly washed out at a point where the bank has a perpendicular fall of fifty feet. Twenty feet of the embankment was carried away in twenty minutes. Sidewalks and streets were torn up by the immense volume of water, the Niagara canning factory flooded, sixty tons of coal washed into the canal and great damage done to goods in the factory. Culverts were stopped up with rocks, and altogether this is the largest washout that has ever occurred here, as about a dozen large establishments cannot run until temporarily repaired. The loss, which probably falls on the Hydraulic Race company, is estimated at $30,000 to $50,000. It will take about a month to get it repaired.

Collision and Loss of Life.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—The steamer City of Rio de Janeiro which arrived to-day from Hong Kong brings the news of the collision on March 28, on the Huantana river between a Chinese ferry steamer and the steamer Orestes. The Chinese steamer, which carried about 100 passengers and a crew of twelve, was cut in two and all except thirty-two passengers and seven of the crew are believed to have perished.

Mangled by Dynamite.

LEBANON, May 7.—Full particulars have just been received here to-day of a frightful explosion of dynamite on the Cornwall ore hills, operated by the well-known Coleman heirs, near Miners Valley. A large number of natives and foreign laborers are employed in loading and mining ore. A number of holes had been drilled preparatory to blasting. These were loaded with strong dynamite torpedoes, after which the superintendent, Patrick Cunningham, told the men to run. They took to their heels, but before all the workmen got away a sufficient distance the blast exploded with a noise like that of thunder. The earth literally quaked and six men were hurled down a steep embankment and some fatally mangled by flying rocks.

Edward Shenk, a middle-aged man, of Cornwall, received severe cuts about the head at a number of places. John Zimmerman had his left arm mashed to a jelly and Adolph Commiskey, a Hungarian, had his left arm blown off. Three other Hungarians had limbs broken and were otherwise so badly hurt that their death is momentarily looked for. Their names are Otto Voshatzer, Stanislaus Wacha and Rudolph Verker.

Cunningham had been cautioned before to give the men plenty of time to get out of the way of all danger. Great indignation prevailed over the entire ore hills and it was feared at one time that the men would do bodily harm to Cunningham, as he was blamed for the accident in not giving the men sufficient time to get away.

England Uneasy.

LONDON, May 6.—The recall of Sir Peter Lumsden has created a general feeling of uneasiness, as it is expected to have an adverse influence on the patriotism of the natives of India, who will consider his call a further concession to Russia. The Standard says: "We must count it a piece of good luck if the whole commission is not recalled." No news is obtainable of the appointment of an arbitrator. The king of the Belgians is spoken of in Berlin as the potentate most likely to be chosen. Bismarck has had a long interview with the emperor of Germany, which is supposed to have concerned the Afghan question. This gave rise to the rumor that both England and Russia asked Emperor William to arbitrate for them. The conservative papers think the delay in finding an arbitrator fore-shadows the difficulty of obtaining the consent of any European state to arbitrate. Despite the semi-official denial of the previous rumors, rumors are now current that the emperors of Russia, Germany and Austria will meet this year.

Denmark is willing to act as arbitrator of the dispute between England and Russia should her services be requested by both these countries.

Meeting of the Army of the Potomac.

BALTIMORE, May 6.—A cloudless sky, warm sunshine and balmy breezes greeted the Society of the Army of the Potomac this morning, the opening day of the third reunion of the society held in a southern city, and the sixteenth annual meeting since the formation of the society.

At a business meeting this afternoon General Grant was re-elected commander. A motion to invite the R. E. Lee Camp of Richmond, Va., to seats on the floor caused a scene of wild confusion. Several members objected, one of them saying a rebel, no matter how repentant, had no interest in the business of union soldiers and that their presence was an insult. Order was finally restored, and a committee was appointed to invite the ex-confederates to meet their old opponents. After adjournment the committee appeared bringing with them a long string of men in grey suits. They were greeted with great applause and in return filled the house with genuine rebel yells. They were then formally welcomed by Colonel McGinnes, to which Commander General Cooke responded.

Appointments.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The president to-day appointed George V. N. Lathrop, of Michigan, to be envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to Russia; Boyd Winchester, of Kentucky, to be minister resident and consul general of the United States to Switzerland; John E. W. Thompson, of New York, to be minister resident and consul general of the United States to Hayti, and A. P. Swineford, of Marquette, Michigan, to be governor of Alaska.

George V. N. Lothrop, of Michigan, is said to be one of the most prominent lawyers in Detroit. He is a graduate of Yale, 60 years of age, and has always been prominently identified with the democratic party.

Boyd Winchester, of Kentucky, was appointed consul to Nice, but declined because the position was not sufficiently lucrative.

John E. W. Thompson, of New York, is graduate of Yale and a colored gentleman. He has spent much of his time abroad, and is said to be highly educated.

Two Buildings Burned in Freeland.

HAZLETON, May 5.—A fire broke out in Freeland this morning shortly after 3 o'clock, which destroyed two frame buildings belonging to William Eckert. One was occupied by F. Fox as a bakery and the other as a clothing store. Nearly all the goods in the buildings were destroyed. The loss on the buildings will amount to from $3,000 to $4,000, with the insurance.

All Quiet Again

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Admiral Jouett informs the department to-day that everything is quiet on the Isthmus. He says the Colon will sail from Aspinwall for New York to-morrow and will carry one-half the marines sent to the Isthmus some weeks since.

General Grant's Condition.

NEW YORK, May 5.—General Grant treated his family and household to another surprise to-day by the marked change in his condition from yesterday. Dr. Douglas said to-night: "It is simply wonderful." No one seems more surprised than the doctors. The General worked on his book for several hours and actually wrote twelve pages of the manuscript himself. The swelling in the jaw is less marked and his general condition better.

NEW YORK, May 6.—Having been undressed and composed himself in his two chairs at about the usual time, General Grant, with but few wakings, slept until between 7 and 8 o'clock this morning. The glandular swelling at the angle of the jaw beneath the right ear was last night very much swollen and quite hard. The general is doing no work to-day in the way of dictation or writing, though he may possibly give some attention to the arrangement of data.

When Dr. Barker left General Grant's home this afternoon, where he had been on a visit, he said that the cancer lump on the tongue was not progressing so fast, because the general's system had become stronger. He thought that the cancer might run along for several months, but that there could be but one conclusion.

$1,000 Reward for Buzzard.

LANCASTER, May 6.—For several weeks the County Commissioners, with the approbation of the Court, have had under private engagement a lot of so-called detectives on the Welsh Mountain, whose ludicrous efforts to catch Abe Buzzard have made them the laughing-stock of the community, and in the frequent interviews which he has with private individuals of the vicinity the mountain outlaw relates how he trips up the officers on his trail. For a season previous to this the Prison Inspectors also had officers on the mountain, whose every movement was known to Buzzard.

Wearied of all these failures, the Commissioners came out to-day with an offer of $1,000 reward for Buzzard's capture and $500 for the capture of the perpetrators of the Linnville burglary and attempted murder some weeks ago. It is believed this reward will stimulate trained detectives to undertake the capture or that the cupidity of some of the gang may be relied on to betray their chief. As Buzzard has very recently shown himself armed and determined, bloody work may soon be reported from the hill in which he makes his haunts.

Commodore Garrison's Will.

NEW YORK, May 6.—The will of the late Commodore Cornelius K. Garrison was filed for probate to day with the Surrogate. The document was executed February 17, 1883. The decedent gives the house in Park avenue and what it contains to his wife, Letitia W. Garrison. He also leaves her $600,000. Part of the estate he bequeathes to his children, grandchildren and other relatives. The remainder is to be held for five years and then one-half is to go to his daughter, Catharine M. Vanauken; one-eighth to his grandchild, Martha E. Garrison, and the remaining two-eighths to his two grandchildren, William R. Garrison and Catharine E. Garrison.

Window-glass Workers.

PITTSBURG, May 7.—The first Convention of the International Federation of the Window-glass Workers will be held at Kauffield Hall, 1505 Carson Street, on July 13. The session will be attended by representatives from every window-glass district in the world, except, perhaps, Germany, where the organization is now being extended. The Convention will be in session for several days, as the business will have to be interpreted to the Belgian, French and Italian delegates. The business before the Convention will be a general review of the constitution and by-laws. The question of wages will not be taken up.

Some Important Arrests.

LANCASTER, Pa., May 7.—Officers from this city arrested Israel Northeimer, Richard Macorally and Elwood Kurtz on the Welsh mountains this afternoon. They are supposed to be the masked burglars who robbed the residence of Edward P. Linville and shot Linville, inflicting dangerous wounds. The prisoners were brought to this city this evening and lodged in jail.

What the Lightning Did.

BERRIEN SPRINGS, Mich., May 6.—Edward Wood, of Eau Claire, was instantly killed by lightning this morning while at breakfast. His wife and babe, who sat opposite, were uninjured. There were no other marks of lightning except a few bricks out of the chimney and the dishes on the table, which were demolished. The lightning left a small dark spot on the baby's head.

New Postmasters.

NEW YORK, May 6.—E. J. Phelps, United States Minister to England, sailed to-day for Europe on the Lloyd steamer Elba, accompanied by his wife. Many of Minister Phelps' friends gathered on the pier to see him off.

General Irwin McDowell Dead.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5.—Major General Irwin McDowell died last night. He was born in Ohio in 1818, graduated at West Point in 1838 and won a captaincy at Buena Vista. In 1856 he became assistant adjutant general, and on May 14, 1861, he reached the rank of brigadier general. He had command of the first army gathered at Washington at the outbreak of the Rebellion, and commanded at the battle of Bull Run, July 20, 1861. In 1862 he took command of a corps, was appointed major general of volunteers, and was given charge of the Rappahannock. He co-operated with the forces of Banks in the Shenandoah and was of great assistance to Pope. At his own request he was relieved September 5, 1862, and subsequently commanded the Department of the Pacific. In 1865 he was made brevet major general United States army and was commissioned in November, 1872. He was placed on the retired list in 1882.

The Legislature Moving.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 7.—The house this afternoon amended the senate resolution for final adjournment, making the date June 12. The following appropriation bills were passed finally: $20,000 for a Working House for Blind Men; $110,000 for Pennsylvania Training School at Elwyn; $66,800 for Dixmont Hospital; $133,000 for House of Refuge at Philadelphia; $50,000 for the Erie House for Friendless children. Among the bills that passed second reading was one appropriating $25,000 for the Lackawanna Hospital.

In the senate to-day the proposed amendment to the constitution providing for a division of the business of the supreme court was defeated on final passage.

The Common Enemy.

In order to make headway against the common enemy, Disease, it is necessary to oppose him with persistence. It very frequently happens that a remedy perfectly adequate to the necessities of the case, if persisted in, is condemned and thrown aside because a few doses of it do not cure a malady. How unreasonable and unjust would such a judgment be regarding Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, one of the most popular and highly sanctioned medicines of the day, a potent invigorant, and an invariably successful remedy for constipation, dyspepsia, liver complaint, incipient rheumatism, neuralgia and gout, inactivity and weakness of the kidneys and bladder, and for the infirmities incident to the decline of life. No fact is better established than the above, yet in order to experience its truth, those afflicted with obstinate forms of disease should give this benignant curative a patient trial. If they do they may rely upon decisive curative results.

What the Poet Laureate Means.

New York Journal.

"Now, children," said a Boston school-ma'am, "can any of you explain the significance of 'the wild mob's million feet' in Tennyson's poem?"

"I flatter myself that I have solved the enigma," replied a spectacled six-year-old girl.

"Elucidate, my dear."

"Well, I opine that the poet refers to an acephalous centipede, ma'am," answered the child of culture.

VITALIZED PHOSPHITES aid most wonderfully in the bodily and mental growth of infants and children. For perfect growth there must be a large amount of phosphites supplied to the brain; if there is an insufficiency, the nerves become hungry, and oftentimes starved; the nights are restless, and consequently the days are fretful.

The ill effects of the brain starvation of little children do not end with childhood, but feebleness is continued through life.

VITALIZED PHOSPHITES is indispensible to all children who would learn easily and retain what they learn. Every thought carries away a moiety of the vital energy of the brain, and if it is not resupplied there is brain hunger. Every child who is studying should take the VITALIZED PHOSPHITES daily during the study months; even with those who are making no special effort, a daily dose as an occasional nutriment will give an assured means of keeping up both growth and vigor.

Remember, it is not a medicine, it is a special FOOD to brain and nerves.

Nations and individuals alike fall to ruin when they "forget God" and go into vain idolatries of self and self-gratification. The best histories which have come down to us have been written by men who felt profoundly this conviction. For one thing, and a rather important one in such a matter they were afraid to tell lies.

Samson's Legs and Locks.

When Delilah clipped off Samson's locks that mighty athlete at once became "as other men." If it could be proved that the possession of luxuriant hair would enable men to tear open lions' jaws, HISCOX & Co. would be driven wild in their effort to supply enough of Parker's Hair Balsam to meet the demand. As it is the balsam prevents your hair from falling out, and restores the original color if faded or gray. Besides it is a great addition to the toilet table simply as a dressing.

A Plea for Flowers and Assistance.

Gregg Post, No. 95, Department of Pennsylvania, most earnestly solicit the aid of all soldiers, mothers, wives, daughters and friends in procuring flowers for Memorial day, Saturday, 30th inst. Without presuming too much upon anyone's time or treasure in the floral kingdom, the committee on floral decorations would first request your personal presence and assistance in the new Post room, Harris' building, from 9 a. m. until the bouquets and wreaths are made. There are many ladies in town, both married and single, whose taste is par excellence and whose thoughts dwell not a little in these sepulchres of the brave departed, whose gateway is the eternal roadway, paved with honor and devotion. Come then, mothers, wives, sisters, friends of the order and of the soldier dead and pass through the gateway. Anyone who cannot assist in the work at the Post room can be represented by some floral offering—a wreath, a bouquet, cross, or such assortment of flowers as may come conveniently within his or her reach.

The last five Memorial days have ever found the children of Bellefonte faithful and true as it were to their traditions, and many a brave deed of the heroes who lie in our cemeteries is treasured in the minds of these young citizens, both boys and girls; nor will they forget the soldier in this coming Memorial Day. The great bulk of flowers have been brought to our Post room heretofore by the children of this town and neighborhood as though in confirmation and expressive of gratitude for this National benefaction and holiday. Thanking them, we of the G. A. R. again rest the burden upon their young and buoyant soldiers, and call earnestly for flowers.

COM. ON FLORAL DECORATION,
Post 95, G. A. R.

—Col. Bain lectured Friday evening to an appreciative audience of more that two hundred people. The Colonel's subject was "A Journey to the Golden Gate." He is one of the most charming talkers who has ever visited Bellefonte. His lecture included only the wonders seen in the four months journey from his home in Bourbon county, Ky., to San Francisco and return, but it gave perhaps a better idea of this remarkable country than any other description that could have been given. His references to the acres of prairie dogs, to the foul blot of Mormonism and to the Indian, while exquisitely humorous, were also instructive. Then his journey over the snow-capped mountains and into the garden-like valleys contained grand suggestions and fine bits of description. His description of California represented it to be indeed the garden spot of the world—the land par excellence of pure atmosphere and luxuriant vegetation. Cosmopolitan San Francisco came in for her share of attention. Frequently in his remarks he switched off on to side tracks of thought which were full of sentiment and useful lessons. We hope that the W. C. T. U., under the auspices of which he came to Bellefonte, realized handsomely by the lecture.

Rev. Hewitt at His New Home.

Through the courtesy of Mr. W. R. Teller, of the Bush House, we were shown a copy of the Fremont (Neb.) Daily Herald of May 4. That paper notices the numerous testimonials of esteem which were tendered to Rev. Hewitt on his departure, especially that of Constans Commandery, K. T., and alludes to his first Sunday in Fremont as follows:

"The Rev. John Hewitt conducted the service at the Episcopal church yesterday, and the commencement of the new rector's duties was greeted with a beautiful Sabbath morning, and a full representation of the parish occupied the seats of the church. The sermon was prefaced by a few appropriate remarks regarding the circumstance of his accepting the call of the parish, and the pleasant anticipation of himself and family in making the acquaintance of the parishioners. The rector's acceptance has placed him in the center of a pleasant society, and judging from his discourse yesterday morning, there is no doubt of the result of his professional labors in Fremont."

—The Lutheran church sociable met at the residence of G. A. Harbaugh, on Curtin street, Thursday evening, and had a very enjoyable time. In fact, it could not have been anything but a success being under the leadership of so capital a worker as Deacon Jno. Kline. The next meeting will be at Mr. Samuel Olewine's residence on the first Thursday in June.

—Millheim is ahead of Bellefonte in the organization of a hook and ladder company. The following are among the members: Dr. J. F. Harter, J. H. Swartz, E. Brumgard, Wm. H. Miller, Samuel Weiser Jr., Dr. D. Mingle, Wm. Maize, F. D. Luse, J. W. Lose, R. A. Bumiller.

Must Take the Consequences.

The following occurrence, culminating as it did in a decision which applies to all railroad travelers, will be read with interest by such persons:

John L. Bair was the plaintiff before Judge Arnold in Philadelphia on Thursday in a suit to recover damages for an alleged illegal eviction from a train. In February last Bair was a passenger from Philadelphia to Gap Station. At Downingtown the conductor told him that he must either go into the smoking car or leave the train, whereupon he left the train, accelerated, he now alleges, by the conductor's pushes. On cross-examination he admitted that he had two drinks before getting on the train, and that he and two friends with him had a flask, from which they took one or more drinks on the car. The conductor and several of the passengers testified that the three men were drinking, and were noisy and objectionable to the other passengers. They paid no attention to the conductor's repeated remonstrances. Judge Arnold instructed the jury that people who drank whiskey in railroad cars must take the consequences; that the evidence convinced him that the three men were drunk and disorderly, and that the conductor would have been justified in throwing them out through the window if necessary. The jury found a verdict in favor of the defense without leaving their seats.

A Battle with the Flames.

The fire at Linn & McCoy's ironworks near Milesburg, on Wednesday afternoon, about 2 o'clock, was not so disastrous as at first reported and was extinguished after burning what is known as the stock or bridge house and the casting house.

Our reporter was present at the scene of the conflagration and can testify to the brave work done by the employes of Linn & McCoy. The wind seemed to blow a perfect hurricane at that point, and, of course, after the inflammable buildings were on fire the only result of their efforts would be to prevent the surrounding structures from sharing in the general destruction. The store building and other structures were on fire at one time, but the flames were soon extinguished. The citizens of Milesburg, the Nail Works employes and a few from Bellefonte were present and gave valuable assistance, for which the proprietors are heartily thankful.

The loss will not exceed $2,000, and will not inconvenience the proprietors to any considerable extent. We observed that there is a large stock of metal and blooms on hand which will last until new buildings are erected to take the place of the ones that were burned.

Remarkable Coincidence.

Some time in March the REPUBLICAN published in the column for selected poetry a poem entitled "The Printer's Hiawatha." We varied it as we frequently do such selections to meet local conditions, and made the closing four lines read:

Would you read a paper paid for?
Send us money when Gates sees you
Put it into his long fingers—
All the money that you owe us.

Now, the "Gates" referred to means Mr. Chas. Gates, the collector and solicitor for this paper. We thought that he was the one and only Gates in this part of the State, with such long poetic fingers, with a capacity to take money and hang on to it; but it seems that the Huntingdon Globe has a collector of the same name, for that paper reprints the identical poem with our variations verbatim. This is a genuine coincidence and we warn our subscribers not to pay money intended for us to the Gates of the Huntingdon Globe. Any of the Globe subscribers who desire to do so, however, have permission to pay money to Mr. Chas. L. Gates, collector for this paper.

—For the purpose of carrying on the work of the Topographical Survey of this State an appropriation of $10,000 has been asked of the Legislature. The Engineer's Club, of Philadelphia, intends to petition the Legislature to appropriate the desired amount. The Board of Commissioners of the Geological Survey also recommend the appropriation of this sum, as the materials for a permanent geological map of the State have been collected, but there is no good topographical base for such a map. It is claimed that not a single county in the State is correctly mapped.

—A tree planted in Tyrone in commemoration of General Grant's birthday was damaged by somebody and a reward has been offered for the arrest and conviction of the man who damaged it. John T. Fowler, of this county, is one of the gentlemen who offers this reward.

Railroad Progress.

From the Daily News of May 7.

Hon. L. A. Mackey came up from the city of Lock Haven on Wednesday afternoon. He was weary, having traveled almost unceasingly for two days and nights, but, nevertheless he found time to give information on the subject of railroads, and in doing so we have always found him one of the most obliging and courteous gentlemen we have ever met. He said that there has been some delay in the delivery of iron for the completion of B., N. and L. R. R., but that yesterday the first car load reached Tyrone and will probably be here to-day.

The rumor that the road is to be completed by the 28th inst. had its source in a request from President Atherton, of State College, to complete it in that time and an honest effort will be made to comply with the request. It may be accomplished although the company cannot promise it for a certainty. Mr. Mackey is, however, more than confident that its completion will not be delayed longer than July 4, and all the railroad millionaires in the State will come to Bellefonte to aid us in celebrating the great National holiday in a trip over the new line.

—The police of this town might have made themselves useful had they been near the other evening at 6:30 o'clock. Three boozy individuals in a delapidated buggy, undertook to ride into Charlie Ryan's tobacco store. Finding some opposition in this direction, they took a different course and amused themselves by driving up and down the depot platform and along the railroad. Mr. Reesner undertook to stop them, but was unable to do so without assistance receiving only abuse for his pains. One of the party at length became sufficiently sober to remonstrate with his companions against such unruly amusement, and after a brief fisticuff precipitated by this disagreement in opinion, the entire party withdrew.

—The W. C. T. U. county convention will be held in Bellefonte on Thursday, the 14th. In the evening a public meeting will be held in the Court House, to be addressed by Mrs. McLaughlin. An Ottawa paper says of her lecture there: "Words alone in the printed column fail to produce the flashing eye, the clear ringing voice, and the graceful and impressive gestures of such a polished and effective speaker as Mrs. McLoughlin. Hon. Sir. Leonard Tilley moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. McLaughlin, in which he characterized her address as elegant, comprehensive and exhaustive."

—Mr. A. Tappan, who is a student in Christie's School of Business in Lock Haven, after instructions for only a brief period, has executed the finest specimen of pen drawing ever seen in that city. Among the students are ten who are teachers by profession, evincing that those who know best where the most valuable instruction is given are quick to decide in favor of this excellent institution.

—We see by the Philipsburg papers, that John Francis has unexpectedly fallen heir to an immense fortune, left to him by an uncle, who recently died in Valparaiso, Chili. John will leave shortly to take charge of his possessions, which in the aggregate amount to $1,500,000. When he returns he will be the richest man in this neck of woods.—Osceola Reveille.

—From the Curwensville Herald: "W. I. Barnes, of Centre Hill, Centre Co., the gentleman who has the contract for carrying the mail between this place and New Washington, and whose term commences July 1st, has purchased the unexpired term of J. S. McNeal, the former contractor. Mr Barnes made his first trip on Monday."

—The Tyrone correspondent of the Altoona Tribune says that Miss Grace Bollinger, of Philipsburg, and Mr. Al. Beardsley, of Elmira, N. Y., were joined in matrimony Thursday morning at the home of the bride. They passed through Tyrone the same day on their way to the groom's home.

—We are glad that such a handsome grocery store as that conducted by Mr. Harry Teats occupies Mr. Harris' new building. Mr. Teats is an expert grocer and keeps his store in apple pie order.

—The names and address of the Republican county committee for 1885 will be found in the REPUBLICAN to-day.

Thanks for Valuable Service.

McCoy & Linn feel that they are under great obligations to the people of Bellefonte and Milesburg and the employes of the firm for the valuable services rendered on Wednesday afternoon in saving their valuable property from ruin, and request us to express their thanks through the REPUBLICAN. There frequently occur events which render of great value the help of those who can give assistance and this was one of them. The strong wind, the prevailing dryness, the inadequate means to fight the fire all combined to render the occasion alarming in the extreme, and that little damage was done is entirely due to the united efforts made at the proper time. All who helped in this their hour of need will please accept their hearty thanks.

She Got Excited.

An Elmira woman stopped for a lady friend to accompany her to the roller skating rink. Nothing loth, the lady, who was cooking sauerkraut, told her visitor to wait until she put in some pigs' feet and then she would go with her. She rushed about in a hurry, and packed up, as she supposed, her skates, but when she reached the rink she found herself in charge of the pigs' feet, and on rushing home found the skates in the sauerkraut.—Kingston Freeman.

—A billiard contest which took place in a popular billiard parlor in this place recently was between the Gas Company and the Electric Light. Two games were played. The first game of 200 points resulted 200 to 80 in favor of electric light. The second game was better, the score being 200 to 191 in favor of the same party. The best score made being 95 points by Electric Light, was very startling and quite destroyed the hopes of those who pinned their faith to the Gas Company. But try it again; "it's a long lane that has no turning."

—A telegram in the morning papers says that Governor Curtin, who controls the appointment of collector of internal revenue for the Twenty-third district, has tendered the place to E. A. Bigler, of Clearfield county. It has not been learned whether Mr. Bigler will accept. At all events Mr. Jackson will be suspended in a few days.

—The Centre Hall Reporter says: "Mr. Daniel Emerick, a respected citizen died at his residence near Snydertown, aged 73 years. He was buried on 28th ult. Mr. Emerick died on the old homestead, the place of his birth, being one of the first farms cultivated in the valley."

—Philipsburg is to have a new council chamber and a lock up. They will be located near together so that the council can watch the occupants of the lock up and also that they may be near if it becomes necessary to confine them in it.

SPICES.—The best cook in the land cannot cook successfully without pure, fresh spices. These we have in every variety. Well-seasoned food adds to long life and happiness.

SUGARS AND SYRUPS.—In Sugars and Syrups we have all the best brands in the market. Much of the sugar now sold is adulterated, and in an article of this kind there is great waste. We buy from reliable dealers, and handle only the genuine goods.

TEAS AND COFFEES.—No breakfast can be thoroughly enjoyed without a good cup of coffee or tea. A drink of this kind is stimulating and goes right to the spot. Our Coffees and Teas are fresh and strictly pure. The fragrant odor which escapes from the steaming pot as it comes in from the kitchen will convince you of this. We sell more coffee than any other two houses in the county. Why? Because we sell the best and the people know it.

NUTS, CONFECTIONERY, ETC.—In Nuts and Confectionery we have everything that is nice, and just what will please the young folks, and old folks as well. Our candies are all pure and wholesome. We do not handle the highly-colored, poisonous mixtures that ruin and decay the teeth. We have new Florida oranges (this fall's crop), fine Figs and Prunes, and a choice line of Canned Fruits and Preserves. Bear this in mind when preparing to Celebrate the merry holidays.

That Mockery of Justice.

On Saturday evening the Mock trial, which had been the all-engrossing topic of conversation for a week, was given in Y. M. C. A. hall under the auspices of the Literary Society. The entertainment did not begin until 8 o'clock and by that time the pleasant hall was filled to its utmost capacity. The signal for proceedings to begin seemed to be the entrance of Charles Pierce and Francis Speer, Esqs., the intellectual cranium of each attorney surmounted by a stylish high silk hat Hon. Francis Speer had his arm placed confidingly in that of Charles Pierce, M. C., and none would have supposed that these apparantly affectionate friends were about to lock horns in one of the most stupendous legal struggles on record.

President Judge Daniel Hezakiah Hastings and his associate E. C. Humes gracefully occupied the bench and occasioned the first sensation of the day by granting Mr. McCarty saloon license with the privilege of using stained glass if he will paint it red.

The most important legal event was the trial of C. E. Schæffer for the burglary of Valentines Store Co., Limited. Speer & Gates appeared for the prosecution and Pierce & Keller for the defense. Four witnesses testified to the circumstances indicating the guilt of the accused, but these witnesses—Brew, Valentine, Keller and Meek—were found to be notorious characters whose testimony could not be received in a court of even-handed justice. The same number of witnesses appeared for the defense, but did not give very direct testimony. Gray was not permitted to testify because he is one of those individuals who is supposed to be influenced by the changes of the moon. Lemokey was impertinent, while Carey and Taylor were desperadoes.

The Judge sent one of the attaches of the court quite frequently around to McCarty's saloon for—water(?) and as the trial continued he constantly grew more witty and arbitrary. As the draughts began to affect his brain he imagined that the people in the court were indulging in various inconsistencies of behavior and kept the sheriff busy sending for them. They were brought before him and heavily fined and sentenced. It is believed that he afterward removed the sentences on condition that they pay him large sums for doing so. This money, of course, found its way into his pocket.

The prosecution was well prepared and expertly conducted. Pierce addressed the jury for the defense and Speer convinced these twelve respectable gentlemen that the prosecution had established their case, especially in his references to the nationality and character of Carey and Taylor who testified for the defense, but the arbitrary judge took the case out of their hands on the plea that they knew nothing about it and most of them could neither read nor write. "Not guilty" was his verdict, against the protests of the jury and the prosecuting attorneys.

The only thing concerned in this trial that came out of it with unblemished reputation was the safe and that was damaged so much in the explosion that the only change that could be made on it would have been an improvement. It is probable that both the president and associate judges will be impeached by the indignant public.

National Guard News.

A Pittsburg gentleman is authority for the statement that the National Guard of this State is about to be reorganized. It will be done, he says, as follows:

"The number of regiments will be reduced to 10, and these will be equally divided between the two organized brigades of five regiments, one battery and one company of cavalry being in each.

"The State will be divided into halves geographically. The First brigade will be located in the eastern and the Second in the western part. The Third brigade will be pretty badly cut to pieces. Brigadier General Sigfried, its commander, will resign; battery C, under command of Captain Stafford, the only war veteran artilleryman in the State service, will be mustered out with his men, and all the companies which fail to come up to the standard are to be disbanded and their places taken by good companies. This reorganization will reduce the infantry arm of the service 20 companies and 7 regiments. The 8 company regiments will each absorb 4 more companies to bring their number up to 12, making places for 40 companies, and the 2 regiments of 10 companies, the First, of Philadelphia, and Eighteenth of Pittsburg, will accommodate two more companies each, accounting for 44 out of 64 companies left unattached by this new order."

A Surprise.

Dr. Geo. L. Potter Post, No. 261, G. A. R., located at Milesburg, is a wide-awake, lively organization. It numbers among its members many excellent and noble spirits and has the honor of furnishing the state organization with its present active and energetic commander, Austin Curtin.

On the evening of the last regular meeting in April, when the Post was about to close, a pleasant and interesting incident occurred. The outposts were suddenly driven in, and without a moment's warning the ante room was completely crowded with a large delegation of the Woman's Relief Corps Auxiliary to our Post, ladened with a bountiful supply of elegant ice cream, cakes, lemonade, etc., etc. It was a complete supply train. There followed a season of hilarious enjoyment. The commander, adjutant and quartermaster, rallying after their surprise, succeeded in restoring order, and the ladies proceeded to serve to the comrades the delicacies which their noble hearts inspired and willing hands prepared. Whilst partaking of the entertainment, every comrade gracefully surrendered, making himself a willing captive and blessing the liberal donors. The refreshments served, the commander called order, and the ladies were invited to seats in the Post room. Pleasant words were spoken and the commander requested to return the thanks of the Post to the Relief Corps, which he did in his own peculiarly happy style, repeating that he was completely surprised and that between the surprise and the collation he was "too full for utterance." The undersigned were appointed a committee to make a suitable minute of the entertainment and forward a copy to your valuable and interesting paper for publication, after which all retired with pleasant reflections and real good will. The committee respectfully report:

1st, That Dr. Geo. L. Potter Post, No. 261, sustained no serious damage from the premeditated assault upon our outposts and the gallant manner in which the Woman's Relief Corps gained admission to our hall.

2d, That the thanks of the Post are heartily tendered to the generous donors for the handsome entertainment so unexpectedly furnished.

3d, That only the loyal hearts of women could devise and their willing hands carry forward silently and unobserved such an offering of respect for the "boys in blue."

4th, God bless the ladies! Our wives, mothers, sisters, daughters and sweethearts. During the war, inspired by the highest and noblest incentives, to deeds the most efficient and self-sacrificing in relieving suffering and administering to the afflicted, they are now not unmindful nor wanting in respect to the survivors.

Daring Safe Burglars.

On Saturday night two business places were entered and the safes opened. From one of them the burglars secured $72 in money.

They effected an entrance into McCoy & Linn's office at Milesburg and blew open the outside door of the safe with powder. Then they opened the inside door by manipulating the bolts. But they found nothing in the safe that was worth carrying away.

On the same night the burglars entered the store of Mr. William Reside at Unionville. It was evidently some one who understood the combination, as the safe was partly locked, but the burglars opened it without damaging it. They took money to the amount of $72, but left $100 worth of checks.

No clue has been obtained to the perpetrators of the theft. Is it strange that these burglaries should have been committed so soon after that peculiar verdict "Not Guilty" was rendered? Those who desire to trace a connection between these events can do so to suit themselves.

The Brigade Encampment.

Gen. Beaver, Col. Hastings and other officers of the Second Brigade, National Guard, started Tuesday afternoon at 5:20 o'clock for Pittsburg. Thence they will journey along the northwestern part of the State in search of a place for the encampment of the Second Brigade. It is quite probable that Conneaut Lake will again be selected as it is generally considered the finest site in the State for such a purpose. The citizens of Conneaut Lake entertained the officers at dinner on Wednesday. This pleasant trip will occupy a couple of days. Before General Beaver returns home he will go to Philadelphia to attend a banquet to be given by the Young Men's Republican Club.

—The Altoona Times moved into a new office last week and missed the issue of that valuable paper only one day in consequence. Hope its new quarters will be found pleasant and conducive to even greater prosperity.

Railroad Discrimination.

In the course of a debate in the House of Representatives at Harrisburg on Tuesday, the 5th, on the Lee-Wallace bill to prevent railroad discrimination, Hon. Leonard Rhone of this county, made use of the following language:

"The bill under consideration does not propose to fix the railroad charges for freight or traffic; it simply prevents unjust discriminations. There is only one question to be determined by this House, and it is this: Do such unjust discriminations exist in the State of Pennsylvania? I affirm, and without the possibility of contradiction, that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will give certain coal companies the privilege of the use of its cars while it will deny such use to other companies. In the town of Philipsburg certain companies have the use of the cars for $30 a year, while other companies in the same locality are denied that privilege. The result is that those companies that are not in the favor of the railroad company cannot fulfill their contracts, because the railroad company will withhold the facilities for transportation. It is too late for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to come before this House and say that it cannot post its rates or give publicity to its rates. This principle has been affirmed by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in the case of the turnpike company, which must have its rates posted."

A Present for the Logan Hose Company.

Last Monday the Logan Hose Company, of this place, received notice that a committee of the members of Logan Fire Engine Company of Altoona will come from that place next Friday with the object in view of presenting to the company here, on the evening of that day, a handsome frame containing the photographs of each member of the Altoona company.

This is a very happy idea on the part of the fire laddies in Altoona and the Logan Hose boys will richly appreciate the courtesy. The committee may be assured that a hearty welcome will be extended to them. Such a gift is the most appropriate that could be presented and the company here as well as visitors to their hose house will take much pleasure in inspecting the gift.

The affair will probably be concluded with a supper and other festivities which will ensure the visitors an agreeable time. None know better than the Logan boys how to conduct such affairs in a gentlemanly and becoming manner and we predict that it will be managed very successfully.

—The longest tunnel on the South Pennsylvania Railroad is to be completed by the 1st of July, 1886. The names of the mountains being tunneled and the progress made are as follows: Blue Mountain tunnel, length 4,210 feet, 2,800 excavated; Kittanning mountain, 4625 feet long, 2,900 feet excavated; Tuscarora mountain, 5,225 feet long, 2,500 feet excavated; Sideling hill, 6,361 feet long, 2,200 feet excavated; Ray's hill, 3,634 feet long, 1,600 feet excavated; Allegheny mountain, 5,909 feet long, 2,000 feet excavated, and Laurel hill, 5,000 feet long, 1,000 feet excavated. The total length of the tunnels is 38,355 feet, and the total excavation has been 15,000 feet. Altogether about $4,000,000 has been expended on the road.

—Everybody seems to feel the effects of the terribly severe winter, which came as a punishment as it were for certain political mistakes made by the people last fall. Throughout the Ohio valley the crops are late because of the continued cold weather, and Mrs. Ann Gower, of Portsmouth, Ohio, writes that the residents of that section have suffered greatly through the destruction caused by high water and extreme cold. She is a sister of Mrs. W. Iddings of this county and intended visiting her friends in this vicinity this summer had prosperity attended her. But, as it is, she must content herself with a perusal of the columns of the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN.

—The Literary Society realized about $15 by the mock trial. This they will devote to what will be known as a carpet fund, to provide a new carpet for the Y. M. C. A. reading room when enough shall be accumulated for that purpose. A plan is proposed for four members of the Society to prepare themselves on some important question and they will challenge any four gentlemen in town to publicly discuss the question with them in the Court House, before an audience who will be charged a small admission fee. This plan if carried out will be exceedingly interesting and the public will watch its development with eagerness.

—Electric light poles are being put up in all directions. Hope they will be neatly painted.

Burial of Veteran Soldiers and Sailors.

A bill passed the Legislature the provisions of which were such as to require the commissioners of every county in the state to appoint in every ward and township in their respectives counties such number of persons as they shall deem "sufficient," who shall hold their offices during the pleasure of the commissioners, and to be charged with the following duties: "To look after and cause to be buried in a decent and respectable manner in any cemetery or graveyard in the state other than those used exclusively for the burial of the pauper dead," the bodies of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors or mariners who served in the army or navy of the United States in the late rebellion or any preceding war, and who may die leaving insufficient means to pay for their burial.

For the cost of every such burial to the amount of thirty five dollars, the county commissioners are required to draw warrants upon the treasurer of the county. This bill was on Friday vetoed by Governor Pattison.

—This is the way the Orbisonia Dispatch puts it: "Thou shalt not go behind a frosted pane of glass; nor behind a screen beautified by green paint; nor hide thee in a private room when you wish to quench the parched tongue with a glass of foaming beer, or fire thy brain with the essence of distilled corn. And thee must take potions between the hours of the opening of the dram shops in the morning and ten o'clock at night, at least that is what Judge Furst intimated in the court recently held in this county and of course it is understood that sales of liquor are to be made as openly as that of merchandise."

—The Bush House has purchased an immense refrigerator—the one now in use not being large enough for the hotel—and it was put in on Monday. We don't profess to know much about such affairs, but the new one, which is being received in sections, appears to be as large as an ordinary hotel itself and will be sufficiently spacious to contain enough cool refreshments to supply double the number of guests likely to visit Bellefonte at any one time in the next five years.

—One of our exchange says: "It's amusing when soliciting, to hear a man say, 'it doesn't pay to advertise.' Why does this man put out a sign? That's advertising. Why does he obstruct the pavement in front of his store with samples of the goods he sells? This is advertising. Why does he daub the head of a mackerel barrel or dry goods box with the words: 'ALL oUr gGods chEap,' and stick it in a keg of beans or a pile of calico in his store?
